NOVATAN DAMS FLOOD OF STATE INSPECTION REVENUE

Smiling Walter Cole (right photo) of Novato, brandishes a sign warning his neighbors of an impending, surprise inspection by California highway patrolmen. Cole said he estimated that the patrolmen would take in about $2 per car and he disapproved of the state making money in Novato streets. He positioned himself on the curve at Tamalpais Avenue and Novato Boulevard and waved off more than 650 cars. Around the corner, unnerved highwaymen said they could do nothing as Cole was breaking no law. Some drivers grinned their approval; others perched in their car windows to proclaim the greatness of the gentleman. Shouts of "right on" and "you saved my life" rang out from grateful drivers who had forgotten to get their tail lights fixed or purchase that new muffler. Happiest of all were the proprietors of two nearby snack stands. Drivers, using their lots to turn around, stopped for victory feasts to celebrate putting one over on the inspectors.

Firm 'Invited' To Transit Talks

Marin County supervisors, alarmed at opposition by Marin Transit systems to the Golden Gate Bridge District's bid for a $6 million federal grant, today "invited" the private company to explain its opposition at a special meeting next Tuesday.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, branding the Marin City-based company's opposition as "sabotage," said the county board should declare the company's opposition "as being contrary to the public interest."

Marin Transit Systems, as reported Saturday by the Independent-Journal, is fighting the bridge district's application for federal funds to pay two-thirds of the cost of its fleet of 152 buses.

Washington officials told the I-J that Marin Transit Systems had objected that the bridge district "was going to compete unfairly with them and put them out of business."

The president of the company, Theophus Barron Jr., told the I-J several weeks ago that his company was not objecting to the bridge district's grant application.

Baptiste also proposed that the transit district reaffirm its support of the grant and authorize two supervisors to go to Washington, if necessary, to support it.

He stressed that his three-step proposed motion was not intended to jeopardize the $75,000 previously allocated by the county to subsidize new "dem-

Marin Tax Rate Set At $2.89

Marin County supervisors today formally approved a basic county tax rate of $2.89 per $100 assessed valuation, a 31.5 cent increase over last year but not as high as the $3.23 feared last June.

In setting the tax rate, the supervisors accepted a series of recommendations made by Asst. Administrator Thomas F. Campanella on the amount that should be allocated for various welfare and medical needs, with a $300,000 cushion to meet financial obligations that the state might push onto the county.

Simultaneously, Chairman Louis H. Baar took a swing at new state welfare legislation that requires counties to provide family planning services (birth control devices) to those aged 15 to 44.

"We rejected contraceptives to younger children but the state now says we have to provide them for 15-year-olds regardless of what the parents think," stormed Baar.

"They're breaking down the whole family relationship. They're saying that the state is so powerful they can tell kids to disregard their parents."

Baar declared he is so irked he plans to complain to the Legislature or to the governor.

Supervisors this morning also approved tax rates for 11 cities, 21 school districts and 38 special districts.

The only city where the new tax rate was not previously announced was Mill Valley, where the city council met last Friday. County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported that Mill Valley's tax rate will be $2.76, a drop of almost 17 cents from last year's $2.929.

Educators Laud School Decision

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Educators and officeholders, led by Wilson C. Riles, today generally praised as long overdue Supreme Court action which scrapped California's public school finance system.

See story on court decision, Page 3.)

"The court has really faced up to the problem all of us have been aware of for a long time," declared Riles, state superintendent of public instruction.

"Basically we are saying the quality of a child's education should not depend upon where he lives in the state and that school financing is a state function," he said.

Riles said he hoped the state court's action Monday would spur the legislature now to move "with dispatch" toward erasing inequities in how California finances its schools and takeover support of local education.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, promised property tax reform and school financing will be the "first issue" taken up next Tuesday by the Assembly when the lawmakers return from a three-week vacation. Gov. Ronald Reagan withheld comment until he read the ruling.

The court ruled the current

Panel Asks Closure Of Boat Harbor

By SANDRA YOUNG

Mill Valley's small boat harbor may be shut down next week and sailing and canoeing lessons halted because of raw sewage in Richardson Bay.

The city's park and recreation commission last night decided to recommend the city council close the harbor and began looking for a new location for boating activities, since tests of the water have revealed an extreme health hazard.

Theodore M. Keller Jr., district sanitarian of the Division of Environmental Health in the Marin County Public Health Department, told the commission the outlet pipe for sewage discharge from the Mill Valley sewage treatment plan is only about 100 feet from the boat

Barrows Named Administrator

John F. Barrows was appointed county administrator today by a 3-2 vote of the Board of Supervisors. Barrows is now acting administrator.

The appointment was made subject to review in six months time. In moving for Barrow's selection, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. agreed with Supervisor Michael Wornum's suggestion that if the board was not satisfied it could return to open recruiting and a screening committee.

Supporting Arrigoni were supervisors Wornum and Arnold M. Baptiste. Supervisors John F. McInnis and Louis H. Baar objected that hiring Barrows without a screening committee's recommendation put him "under a cloud" even if he were the best qualified for the job.

Bingham Charged In Quentin Shoot-Out

Bales Seeks Arrest Of Jackson's Last Visitor

By MARY LEYDECKER

Marin County Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales today issued a warrant for the arrest of attorney Stephen M. Bingham — Soledad Brother George Jackson's last visitor — charging the vanished attorney with five counts of murder.

"I've reached the conclusion that there is no other way Jackson could have obtained the death gun," (other than from Bingham), Bales said.

Jackson set off a bloodbath at San Quentin Prison on Aug. 21 by getting the drop on guards at the adjustment center with a gun officials believed he had hidden in a wig. During the brief reign of terror that followed, three correctional officers and two inmates were killed and Jackson died when he ran out of the building, carrying a gun, and was shot by officers.

Bingham is being charged in connection with the deaths of all but Jackson.

(Three other correctional officers also suffered serious wounds in the tragedy.)

Bales today noted that Bingham, 29-year-old East Bay attorney and descendent of a well-known Connecticut family, has not been seen since Aug. 21.

Way Out Sought On Bloodbath Hearings

Court hearings and trials stemming from the San Quentin bloodbath of Aug. 21 should be held inside San Quentin Prison or at some location other than the Marin County Civic Center, the county board of supervisors declared today.

At the request of supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., supervisors invited the presiding judge of Marin Superior Court, the district attorney and the sheriff to a meeting with them next Tuesday to see if trials and hearings can be moved out of the Hall of Justice.

The $15-million Civic Center complex should be a place of pleasure for Marin citizens to enjoy, but it is becoming a "virtual fortress," Baptiste complained. "It is a place where employees are becoming tense and fearful. How secure are we when weapons and other paraphernalia can be smuggled in so easily into the state prison?" asked Baptiste.

He and Arrigoni also pointed out the tremendous increase

Burger Says No Constitutional Requirement Of Racial Balance

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Chief Justice Warren E. Burger observed today that racial balance is not constitutionally required in public schools, but he refused nevertheless to block one local school plan dedicated to that objective.

The plan was proposed "under protest" by the Winston-Salem and Forsyth County Board of Education in North Carolina in the wake of a Supreme Court ruling earlier this year in a series of test cases which approved busing, school pairing and other means for eradicating state imposed dual school systems.

Burger agreed with a recent opinion in another case by Justice Hugo L. Black that the situation "is in an undesirable state of confusion." Burger said it was impossible "on the record now before me" to determine whether lower courts considering the Winston-Salem case correctly read the high court's instructions in test cases.

He referred particularly to "explicit language as to a requirement of fixed mathematical ratios or racial quotas and the limits suggested as to transportation of students."

Burger said that for this reason he could not as a single court member take it upon himself to disturb a ruling by a federal district court in North Carolina on July 26 approving the Winston-Salem plan.

The local school board appealed to the high court an

SPRINKLES — JUST ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

Summer clouds brought light sprinkles to Marin and Southern Sonoma counties last night, where rainfall ranged from .1 inch in Sausalito to a trace in Petaluma.

Other rainfall reports included Woodacre, .02 inch; Tamalpais Valley, .09; Bolinas, .05; Novato, .02, and a trace in Mill Valley, Belvedere and Tiburon.

The weatherman predicted clear skies for today and tomorrow.

Another Pullout Phase Completed

SAIGON (UPI) —The U.S. command today closed out ahead of schedule another stage of President Nixon's program to withdraw American servicemen from Vietnam, and said the force will be cut by 42,000 men in pullouts over the next three months.

The Air Force's 537th Tactical Airlift Squadron of 350 men was ordered to pack for home, the last unit to be included in the eighth phase of withdrawals.

The command is cutting the American military presence in the war zone in three increments to meet Nixon's promise of reducing the force by 100,000 men to 184,000 by Dec. 1.

The program began May 1, when the authorized maximum strength of the force was 284,000 troops, down from a peak of 543,400 men in April, 1969.

Latest official figures put the U.S. force at 219,000 men as of last Thursday, 7,000 men ahead of pullouts needed to comply with the President's withdrawal orders. Military sources said the command expected to easily beat the Dec. 1 deadline of a maximum of 184,000 troops in Vietnam, as it has done with all other redeployment increments.

Thieu To Go On TV To Explain Election

SAIGON (UPI) —President Nguyen Van Thieu, fortifed by pro-administration gains in the National Assembly elections last Sunday, was expected to go on television soon to explain his position in what apparently will be a one-man race for president.

Thieu indicated previously that he would make his plans for the Oct. 3 presidential race known soon after the assembly balloting.

Thieu appeared to have retained his grip on the National Assembly on the basis of unofficial results of the weekend balloting. Thieu met Monday with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker, apparently to discuss the Sunday election outcome and Thieu's presidential campaign, which officially begins Friday.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's name was still on the Oct. 3 presidential election ballot alwthough Ky has attempted to withdraw, charging Thieu has rigged the election. But the Supreme Court refused to remove his name.

Thieu has been noticeably silent during the two-week political crisis in South Vietnam, the most serious the country has seen since 1966 and one which has seen not only Ky but Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh drop out of the race after accusing Thieu with trying to fix the exection.

Thieu has let it be known so far that he expects to stay in the race and to hold the election on schedule.

Cong Ambush GI Unit, Kill Three Near Da Nang

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops ambushed an American armored unit near Da Nang and killed three GIs, wounded four others and blew up two armored personnel carriers and a Sheridan tank, the U.S. command said today.

Despite the second attack in five days on an American unit near Da Nang, allied spokesmen reported a sharp decline in Communist attacks.

Military spokesmen reported North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces carried out 14 attacks across South Vietnam in the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m. (6 p.m. EDT) compared with 96 in the previous 48 hours coinciding with National Assembly elections.

Air Force spokesmen reported four B52 bomber missions against Communist positions just south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) overnight. Spokesmen said other U.S. fighter-bombers, artillery and gunfire from 7th Fleet ships offshore in the Gulf of Tonkin continued to pound Communist troop concentrations in the southern sector of the DMZ.

A military spokesman said the patrol of the Americal Division was returning to its base camp Monday night when the Communists opened fire from jungles with automatic rifles, machine guns and antitank guns.

Five miles south of the ambush site a mine destroyed another Americal armored personnel carrier, wounding five other GIs.

It was the second major clash in five days involving Americal Division troops south of Da Nang. Last Thursday Viet Cong units killed five GIs and wounded seven in an attack on an armored base camp 16 miles southwest of Da Nang. Monday night's assault was 30 miles south of the city.

CAPTURED — FBI agents handcuff Dennis Clyde Bennett, 25, following his capture at Homestead, Fla. He was apprehended by a lone agent yesterday after taking a bank president and wife hostage in an attempt to extort $100,000.

Daring Gunpoint Capture In Big Extortion Case

MIAMI (UPI) —A 25-year-old unemployed plumber was arrested by FBI agents Monday after a harrowing two-hour chase in which he held a bank president and his wife hostage during an attempt to extort $100,000.

The arrest was mostly the work of one man, Kenneth Whittaker, 44, special agent in charge of the Miami FBI office, who confronted the man as he sat in the rear of a stopped car with a pistol pointed at his hostages.

According to the FBI, the gunman, identified as Dennis Clyde Bennett, 25, of Homestead, Fla., went into the home of Homestead's First National Bank President Paul Losner and ordered Losner's wife, Bea, to call the bank. Mrs. Losner told her husband she was being held hostage and then turned the phone over to the gunman, who demanded that Losner come to the house with $100,000.

Losner notified the FBI in Miami, then phoned his home and told the gunman there would be some delay in raising the money.

The bank president took the $100,000 in small bills to his home where he, too, became a hostage, the FBI said. The three left in Losner's car with the bank president driving and his wife sitting beside him. The man sat in the back seat with the money and an automatic pistol pointed at Mrs. Losner's head.

For two hours 12 FBI cars and a Dade County Sheriff's plane followed the Losner car, keeping it under constant surveillance as it sped northward 35 miles to Miami International Airport. The agents made their presence known but did not attempt to stop the car, they said.

Near the airport the car stopped and agent Whittaker, the father of six children, walked up to it. He pointed his service revolver at the man and said, "Drop it."

The man said, "Okay," and dropped his weapon, Whittaker said. Other agents quickly moved in to assist in the arrest.

Israeli Envoy To U.S. Says Politics Holding Jets Delivery

By United Press International.

Yitzhak Rabin, the Israeli ambassador to Washington, said today the United States is withholding delivery of F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers to Israel for political reasons and that this is obstructing Middle East peace efforts.

Rabin returned to Jerusalem today for consultations on an Arab call for a fullscale United Nations Security Council debate on Jerusalem which was virtually annexed from Jordan by Israel during the 1967 War. Israel was putting pressure on Washington to try to forestall the debate.

Asked at Lod International Airport outside Tel Aviv whether Washington was withholding the supply of Phantoms, Rabin said: "It is a fact." Asked if this were being done for political reasons he replied: "One can say this."

"This policy is a mistake on the part of the Americans because the only chance for achieving an interim or an over-all agreement is when the Arabs and Russins reach the conclusion they have no military chance of vanquishing Israel," Rabin said.

Rabin said the United States still has not responded to Israel's longstanding request for more Phantoms and that Israel must remain militarily superior if peace is to be maintained.

Rabin said the U.S. government so far has not opposed the convening of the Security Council to discuss Jerusalem and added: "This is not constructive — this is even harmful for Jordan." He called the Security Council an "ocean of words"

Oil At Border

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A 300,000-gallon oil spill that fouled Southern California beaches near the Western White House has diminished, but patches were spotted near the Mexican border and efforts began today to keep it from washing into the Baja California coast.

"We recognize our responsibility to clean it up and have initiated communications with the Mexican government," an 11th Naval District spokesman said.

Widow Sues

NEW YORK (UPI) — A New Jersey widow named in a recent book as really being the missing aviatrix Amelia Earhart filed a $1.5 million libel suit Monday against the book's authors and its publisher.

Mrs. Irene Bolam of Monroe, N.J., filed suit in Manhattan State Supreme Court claiming the book damaged her reputation by picturing her as a bigamist, spy and traitor. She also said her foreign radio business suffered because customers would no longer do business with her.

Named as defendants were former Army Air Corps officers Joseph Klass and Joseph Gervais, authors of "Amelia Earhart Lives," and McGraw-Hill, which published the book last November.

Fire Spreads

LAKE PIRU, Calif. (UPI) — A fast-moving brush fire raged out of control in two directions early today in Los Padres National Forest as more than 450 men dug trenches in attempts to stop the wind-whipped blaze.

The fire, which consumed about 1,600 acres in six hours, was the second in the forest in four days. An earlier fire charred more than 2,500 acres of brush and valuable watershed near Santa Ynez.

Flames in the latest blaze were pushed by winds gusting up to 30 miles an hour.

Black Envoys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said today the United States should send only non-white diplomats to South Africa in order to increase American contacts with the black population there.

Bayh also said he hoped to visit Africa sometime "before the pressures of the 1972 presidential campaign become everyone's preoccupation."

Bayh is an unannounced candidate for the Democratic nomination for president. He made his remarks on Africa in an interview prior to leaving on a European trip.

The senator disclosed that he had engaged a friend, Ulric Haynes Jr., a black management consultant and a former member of the National Security Council, to undertake a fact-finding tour of sub-Sahara Africa in his behalf.

Aspirin Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration has proposed that aspirin makers be forced to package the pills in such a way that 85 per cent of all children aged 3 or 4 would be unable to open the container.

The proposed rule would also provide that 80 per cent of the children in the same age bracket be unable to open the package even if showed how to do it — but that the container be made in such a way that 90 per cent of all adults would still be able to open it. Certain packages, mostly the 12-tablet tins, would still be allowed on the market provided they were marked for households without young children.

The agency did not explain how it would implement the proposal, but presumably it would have to test the new aspirin containers on groups of children to find which ones are unopenable.

Tight Security

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The British army today tightened security around the Irish border, scene of a shooting incident Sunday in which a soldier was killed.

The action came amid demands from Northern Ireland's government party that the border be virtually sealed to cut gelignite supplies to the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA).

An army spokesman said there was "greatly increased activity" in border areas following Sunday's incident in which IRA gunmen wounded a trooper in addition to killing Cpl. Ian Armstrong.

At least nine explosions were reported throughout the province Monday night and in the early hours of today.

Troop Parley

LONDON (UPI) — The Western powers will send a ranking "explorer" to Moscow by mid-October to sound out the Kremlin on an East-West conference on troop cuts in Europe, diplomatic sources said today.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) allies will co-ordinate their plans at a meeting of their deputy foreign ministers in Brussels Oct. 5.

A special NATO representative will carry their suggestions to Moscow and discuss with top Kremlin officials the scope, place, timing and agenda of the projected troop cuts conference, envisaged for early next year, the sources said.

More Jobless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has added eight more metropolitan areas to the list of major cities experiencing "substantial unemployment" of 6 per cent or more.

The additions brought the total metropolitan areas in the category to 62 — the highest number since 63 were listed in March, 1962, and 62 the following month. The all-time high since the statistics were started in 1955 was 101 cities in April, 1961.

The eight areas listed in a report issued Monday were Boston, Philadelphia, Fort Worth, Tex.; Dayton, Ohio; Shreveport, La.; Wilkes-Barre-Hazleton, Pa.; Charleston, S.C.; and Davenport, Iowa-Rock Island-Moline, Ill.

Court Rules Property Tax Illegal For Public Schools

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's public school financing system, largely based on the local property tax, was ruled unconstitutional yesterday by the state Supreme Court on grounds it unfairly discriminates against the poor.

The court in a 6-1 opinion written by Justice Raymond L. Sullivan scored the dependence on local property taxes as the "root of the constitutional defect" in the educational financing scheme.

The landmark decision resulted from a lawsuit filed by a group of Los Angeles County schoolchildren and their parents as a class action against both state and county officials.

The court said that as a "practical matter districts with small tax bases simply cannot levy taxes at a rate sufficient to produce the revenue that more affluent districts reap with minimal tax efforts."

Thus, the court said, "affluent districts can have their cake and eat it too. They can provide a high quality education for their children while paying lower taxes. Poor districts, by contrast, have no cake at all."

More than half of education funds are raised from property taxes; 35 per cent from state aid and the balance from federal and other sources.

The amount a local school can spend depends largely on its property tax base. The court noted that tax bases vary widely throughout the state—ranging from a low of $103 a student to a high of $952,156—a ratio of nearly 1 to 10,000.

Gov. Ronald Reagan's office had no immediate comment on the decision. A spokesman said the governor would study it before commenting.

The court said the current financing system "makes the quality of a child's education a function of the wealth of his parents and neighbors.

"Recognizing as we must that the right to an education in our public schools is a fundamental interest which cannot be conditioned on wealth, we can discern no compelling state purpose necessitating the present method of financing."

The court said "such a system cannot withstand constitutional challenge and must fall before the equal protection clause."

The court also observed that the current system, which has drawn attack for years in the legislature, couldn't be considered necessary to promoting local financial choices because "only a district with a large tax base will truly be able to decide how much it really cares about education.

"The poor district cannot freely choose to tax itself into an excellence which its tax rolls cannot provide."

The one dissent was cast by Justice Marshall F. McComb.

The lawsuit by the Los Angeles County students and parents had been dismissed by the trial court on ground that they presented no valid legal claim. But the high court ordered the lower court to hear the parents' case and directed a trial.

The court's decision was sure to create a large new issue in the legislature when lawmakers return from a three-week recess Sept. 7.

A spokesman for Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, said "the court's decision merely adds greater urgency to our concern for more equitable school finance legislation."

He added, "school finance will be one of the first items on our agenda when the legislature returns."

Democrats have been urging a new school aid package in the neighborhood of $500 million.

Proposal Unpopular With College Head

A proposal that admissions standards to state colleges be raised for junior transfers from community colleges is not being met with enthusiasm by junior college officials, including the president of College of Marin.

"All we want is equal treatment for our students," Dr. John A. Grasham said yesterday before he left for a meeting in Los Angeles today in which the proposal will be discussed.

The state colleges' chancellor, Glenn S. Dumke, wants trustees next month to raise the admissions standards for students who transfer to state colleges in their junior year.

At present, any community college student with 60 units credit and a C average is eligible for transfer. The units can be in any courses taught in the junior college, many of which are nonacademic subjects such as auto mechanics or cosmetics.

Since students cannot graduate from state colleges without four years of academic subjects, many need extra time to fill requirements because their credits are not in line with state college requirements.

Dr. Grasham said that in an effort to prevent this, students are counseled at College of Marin on what subjects they need if they are going to transfer. However, some students change their minds and others take courses that are acceptable at certain state colleges, he said.

For example, one state college has a four-year auto mechanics program but the others do not.

"Students who have transferred from community colleges have made good records at the state colleges," Grasham said. He added that he wants any course accepted by any state college to be accepted by all because students apply to the system, not to a specific college.

Planning Hearings Scheduled

Marin's City-County Planning Council will meet Thursday night to set up a public hearing schedule for the county's preliminary countywide plan.

The CCPC meeting is set for 8 p.m. in the planning commission chambers at the Civic Center.

The council will act on a preliminary schedule that calls for a series of public hearings on the countywide plan between Sept. 23 and Oct. 30.

The CCPC will also:

CHIEF ISSUES — Get a report on the major issues in which the public seems concerned in the preliminary countywide plan. The major issues are the need for increasing tourism, putting a limit on population growth, and a proposed national parkway from Golden Gate Bridge to Point Reyes National Seashore.

WEST MARIN ZONING — Decide whether an interim zoning ordinance should be passed, reducing allowable density in West Marin. The permitted density now is 1.15 units per acre.

TRANSPORTATION — Discuss the proposal by the state Division of Highways to delete from the state highway system the following three highways: Shoreline, Highway 17 (east-west connection between Highway 101 and Point Reyes) and Highway 131 (Tiburon Boulevard).

Tough Water Pollution Law Signed By Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation toughening state water pollution control laws has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure, SB 225 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, broadened the $6,000-a-day civil penalty to include accidental or intentional discharges of oil or other pollutants into state waters.

Such pollution previously could be prosecuted only as litter, with a maximum fine of $500.

Behr's bill also gave regional water quality control boards more muscle by enabling their staffs to seek immediate court action to levy the penalty, instead of waiting for a board's monthly meeting to issue a cease and desist order.

The law has limited the penalty to dischargers violating a cease and desist order, and no penalty could be imposed for violating established waste discharge requirements or for accidental pollution, such as January's oil spill in San Francisco Bay.

The bill was drafted by the state Water Resources Control Board. Similar provisions were dropped from the state's 1969 water pollution control act in order to get it passed.

Mother Gives Kidney To Son

BOSTON (UPI)—An 80-year-old woman who gave a kidney to her ailing son was reported Monday in "very good" condition while her son was reported improving in his battle for life at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Mrs. Ethel Finlay of Bolton, about 30 miles west of Boston, donated the kidney to her son Edwin, 39, during a two-hour operation Sunday. Doctors said the kidney began to function immediately and showed no signs of rejection. Edwin Finlay, a father of five, had been afflicted with kidney trouble since he was 21 and had the diseased organs removed in February, forcing him to undergo treatment three times a week at Peter Bent Brigham since Then.

Rose Bowl Theme For Firemen's Ball

"Return to the Rose Bowl" will be the theme of the Seventh Annual Firemen's Ball at 9 p.m., Sept. 11, at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur, sponsored by the Larkspur Association of Volunteer Firemen.

The theme is reminiscent of the days when the Rose Bowl was host to crowds in outdoor dances from 1910 until 1957, making enough money to pay for the Larkspur fire equipment, fire hydrants, and fire alarm system.

Petaluma To Ponder Dilemma Road Funds

The Petaluma City Council — amid indications a delay in funding of a road improvement project is tied to its failure to withdraw from the Association of Bay Area Governments — will meet in special session tomorrow night to try to find a way out of the dilemma.

The meeting was called by four city councilmen, two of whom met yesterday in Sacramento with Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, to urge his support in an effort to convince the state Division of Highways to accelerate funding of $1.3 million in planned improvements to Washington Street, a crosstown bottleneck.

Collier, sometimes known as the "father of California freeways," also is sponsor of a bill (SB 920) that would create a North Coast planning and development commission — an alliance of Sonoma, Mendocino, Lake, Humboldt and Del Norte counties as a substitute to ABAG.

Although Sonoma voters endorsed withdrawing from ABAG in an election this spring, the Petaluma City Council has voted to remain in ABAG.

One of the councilmen who visited with Collier yesterday, William Perry, said any relationship between the Washington Street improvement project and the council's failure to endorse SB 920 was not discussed with the legislator. However, to reports the two were connected, he said, "It's up to people to read between the lines."

Perry, who called tomorrow night's meeting with Councilmen Robert Brunner, John W. Cavanagh Jr. and Robert E. Daly, said Collier "realizes the necessity" of the freeway project but did not indicate whether Collier would support acceleration of funding.

The state Division of Highways, which previously had announced bids would be asked for the project next spring, said last week in a letter to the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce that because of a state "cash-flow problem," the date had been moved back to fall, 1973.

Perry, accompanied to Sacramento yesterday by Brunner, said he now is prepared to switch his earlier vote on SB 920 and endorse the legislation, "All it is, is an endorsement," he said. "It doesn't mean the governor will sign it."

Mayor Helen Putnam said today, "I prefer not to see a connection" between the Washington Street work delay and the council's failure thus far to endorse Collier's bill. She said she placed heavy reliance on the integrity of public officials in such cases.

Tomorrow night's meeting will be at 8 o'clock in city hall.

HARBOR

harbor at the east end of Sycamore Avenue.

Keller said dye tests conducted recently in the area show the sewage is not being properly dissolved or carried out to sea by tidal action. Tests were made after several residents wrote to the city council complaining of visible solid waste in the harbor. The council forwarded the letter to the parks and recreation commission.

Keller cited a directive in the California health and safety codes which states: "No sewage, sludge, grease or other physical evidence of sewage disposal shall be visible at any time on any public beaches or water-contact sports area."

Commissioners expressed fears that small boats which are easily capsized would bring people's bodies in contact with the polluted water.

Parks director Don I. Dimitratos said a couple of hundred persons used the harbor during the summer for sailing and canoeing lessons with the recreation department, the Marin Canoe Club and the Mill Valley Small Boat Club.

The harbor is posted as a restricted recreational impoundment in which recreation is limited to fishing, boating and other nonbody-contact water sports activities, Ke ller said.

However, tests of harbor water fall far short of the statewide standards for recreational impoundments, Keller said.

He recommended the city either change the outflow of the local plant which he added would cost a great deal or relocate the small boat harbor until a new plant is built.

The council will consider the recommendation at its meeting next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Vote Stated On Floating Houseboats

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A plea to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission not to require new houseboats to float at all times will be voted upon by commissioners in their meeting Thursday.

The meeting begins at 2 p.m. in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

The commission's staff has recommended that the application be denied.

An attorney for the houseboat marina developers predicted efforts to clean up the waterfront will collapse if the requirement is not eased.

Also set for a vote is an application by Raymond G. Handley to build his home partially on pilings at 2308 Mar East Street, Tiburon.

Voting on extension of Miller Avenue across marshland in upper Richardson Bay was postponed to Sept. 16.

Cotati's Budget Is Going Down

While most municipal and county budgets are going up, the city of Cotati's is going down.

The city council last night adopted a fiscal 1971-72 spending program of $395,574, down from $475,052 last fiscal year. City Mgr. Paul Salfen said the city incurred considerable expense last year in sewer improvements, including hooking up the system to Rohnert Park's treatment plant.

Despite the budget drop, Salfen said, the city tax rate will remain the same — $1.25 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Sebastopol Woman In Good Condition

Martha L. Buckeli, 64, of 940 Mill Station Road, Sebastopol, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital after being admitted yesterday for a broken left wrist.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Buckeli was involved in an automobile accident, but details of the accident were unavailable.

TRIALS

in cost of trials and extra security, much of which will become the burden of Marin County taxpayers.

"We must begin to return the Civic Center complex to the people," said Baptiste. "To continue the present course is intolerable."

Baptiste asked that these possibilities be considered at next Tuesday's meeting:

1. As an interim measure, all preliminary hearings for convicts involved in the Aug. 21 killings be held at San Quentin or in some building other than at the Civic Center.

2. As a long-term measure, all criminal matters pertaining to San Quentin inmates be held in a separate building to be built at the Civic Center, in another building elsewhere or inside the prison itself.

Arrigoni said the cost of the Angela Davis-Ruchell Magee trial may turn out to be small compared to the costs that will come from the Aug. 21 mass killing of three guards and three inmates.

Two Held For Possessing TV

Fairfax police arrested two 20-year-old youths yesterday on suspicion of possession of stolen property, police reported today.

Stone Marston Uhl of 470 Meadow Way, San Geronimo, and Edward Paul Leclair, of 23 Durham Road, San Anselmo, were booked into Marin County Jail after police saw them with a color television that had been reported stolen.

Police said the men were arrested at 5:15 p.m. after an officer saw the set in their car.

They were being held in lieu of $2,500 bail each, and were scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Recital Planned

Debbi Awner of Mill Valley will be presented in a piano recital by the Berkeley Alumnae Chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, at 8 p.m. Sept. 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Piccirillo of Oakland. Miss Awner will perform works by Chopin, Beethoven, Ravel and Debussy.

BURGER

order of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court, sending an earlier board plan back to the district court following the Supreme Court's supposedly definitive opinions last April 20, mostly involving Charlotte, N.C., commonly known as the Swann case, for the name of one of the parties.

"The district court ... seems to have thought that it was compelled to achieve a fixed racial balance reflecting the composition of the total county system," Burger said. "The explicit language of the (Supreme) court's opinion in Swann suggests a possible confusion on this point.

"I do not attempt to construe that language, but simply recite it verbatim: 'The constitutional command to desegregate schools does not mean that every school in every community must always reflect the racial composition of the school system as a whole.' "

Burger noted that a statement adopted by the Winston-Salem and Forsyth board regarding the plan recited that it was adopting a revision under protest on an understanding that it was required to achieve a fixed racial balance that reflected the total composition of the school district. Burger described this viewpoint as "disturbing."

"It suggests the possibility that there may be some misreading of the opinion of the Court in the Swann case," he said.

He said if the appeals court or the district court interpreted the Supreme Court's opinions "as requiring a fixed racial balance or quota, they would appear to have overlooked specific language of the opinion in the Swann case to the contrary."

The Winston-Salem board's original plan was submitted prior to the Charlotte decision and was intended for the 1970-71 school year, but was held up pending legal action.

In 1969, there were 67 schools in the Winston-Salem and Forsyth County system. The student population of 50,000 was 72.5 per cent white, 27.5 per cent Negro.

Fifteen schools were all black and seven were all white. Of the remainder, 31 had less than 5 per cent of the minority race.

TRANSIT

onstration runs" by Marin Transit Systems.

Supervisor John F. McInnis, however, said next Tuesday's meeting should include a "review of the entire relationship between this county and Marin Transit Systems." The meeting is one to be held by the county transit district which had been scheduled to meet Sept. 21.

Board Chairman Louis H. Baar told the I-J before today's meeting that he also will press for details on who paid for the frequent trips to Washington by Marin Transit Systems officials. Baar said he wanted to know if the trips were paid from the county's subsidies to the company.

Marin Ballet Auditions Set

Auditions for the Marin Civic Ballet will be held at 10:30 a.m. Sept. 10 at the Leona Norman School of Ballet, 1339 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, ballet officials have announced.

Dancers must have had a minimum of four years of ballet training and children who audition must have reached their 13th birthday before May 1, 1972.

Dancers accepted will become members of the ballet company for the 1971-72 season and perform in a special fall-concert in October, six performances of the "Nutcracker" and a spring concert in May.

Four Nurses Begin Hospital Training

Four Marin County young women have started in nurses training at St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco.

They will attend a three-year course at the hospital which has the oldest diploma school of nursing in California.

Those attending are Donelle Campbell of 36 San Ramon Way and Theresa Lyon of 1040 Calle Empinado, both Novato, and Stephanie Cincotta of 531 Fairhills Drive and Marietta Rumburg of 650 Kernberry Drive, both San Rafael.

Neighborhood Youth Corps Given Funds

Marin County has been allocated $80,600 by the Department of Labor for the Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) out-of-school program.

The money will fund job training for 26 students during the coming school year, the labor department said.

Foreaker Named To Works Post

Ray W. Foreaker Jr., vice president of a San Rafael engineering firm and city engineer for Tiburon, will take over as county public works director on Oct. 1 at a salary of $23,500 per year.

Foreaker was selected this morning from among three finalists after a brief closed meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors. Names of the other finalists were not disclosed.

Foreaker announced he will resign from both the Marin County Aviation Commission and the Marin Municipal Water District board when he becomes public works director.

The supervisors set a public hearing to determine his qualifications for 9:15 a.m. Sept. 21. This is a formality required by law.

Foreaker succeeds Donald R. Frost, who quit July 16 to take a job in Yuba County. Frost was getting $23,734 per year.

Foreaker, 45, has been a resident of Marin for 11 years.

CHARGE

terrible and tragic events he triggered at San Quentin is not insignificant," Bales said.

He added that additional evidence he had obtained during the past weekend "appears to rule out the unknowing or innocent transporting of the gun into the prison by Bingham."

Bales said that he still wants to talk to a woman who accompanied Bingham to the prison but who did not visit Jackson. However, he said he does not now contemplate issuing complaints against anyone else other than convicts also involved in the violence.

Eventually he plans to go to the Marin County Grand Jury with cases against inmates, he said.

In an affidavit which led to the issuing of a complaint and warrant for Bingham by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court, Bales traced the evidence he has been given.

He said he based his belief that it was Bingham who smuggled a gun into Jackson on the statements of 11 San Quentin guards, including two who were injured in the blood bath.

Bingham had visited Jackson on five occasions prior to Aug. 21, Bales said. On the morning of the abortive escape attempt, the lawyer arrived at the prison at 10:15 a.m. and for three hours sought permission to see the Soledad Brother, Bales said.

When he was finally granted permission about 1:15 p.m., he filled out a form asking to take a tape recorder into a visiting room.

Bales said officers had told him that Jackson was searched thoroughly twice before being escorted into a visiting room, where there was no barrier between him and the lawyer.

Officers also said Jackson was not wearing a wig before seeing Bingham but one noted that "his hair looked somewhat different" on his trip back to the adjustment center after the visit.

"Immediately upon entering the adjustment center, "Bales's affidavit said, officers began searching Jackson who then pulled a black wig from his head, took out a 9 millimeter automatic pistol and clips. He then took the officers hostage.

When officers got back into the adjustment center after Jackson was shot, they found bodies of three dead guards in Jackson's cell, Bales said, and bodies of two inmates nearby.

Jackson had killed at least one of the officers by firing a bullet into the back of his head, Bales said.

At the prison today, officials said that the normal routine is being gradually resumed with hot meals being served to some inmates. A shakedown of a kitchen area turned up a few "typical prison weapons," Joseph R. O'Brien, information officer for the prison said today.

The finding of the weapons did not halt plans for resumption of serving two hot meals to all inmates within the next few days, O'Brien said.

The foreman of the Marin County Grand Jury today issued a statement saying a committee of the grand jury had found no evidence that prison inmates are being mistreated.

Foreman Milen C. Dempster said that the committee had spent 46 man hours at the prison before Aug. 21 and had looked at the adjustment center before and after the violence on that date.

Yesterday Dempster and four other grand jury members met with Warden Louis S. Nelson and then again toured the adjustment center, talking to inmates there.

SCHOOLS

system of paying for local education in California, which depends heavily on property taxes, is unconstitutional because it discriminates in favor of the wealthy and against the poor.

The decision was greeted statewide with cheers from many school administrators and officeholders alike. There also were some complaints.

For example, Harris Taylor, superintendent of Carmel's relatively affluent school district, grumped that "if the state had been doing its fair share we would not be in this bind. The state should be raising other districts up to our level."

On the other hand, William J. Johnston, superintendent of the Los Angeles schools, called the decision "the greatest thing that has happened in education in a longer time that I can tell you."

Johnston advocated a statewide property tax for education as did other administrators. A Democratic-sponsored Assembly education finance bill supported by Riles included such a tax but that provision was stripped from the legislation.

Under a statewide property tax, each school district would levy a minimum property tax for schools which would be sent to Sacramento. In turn, the money would be redistributed and funneled back to districts on a more equitable basis.

Wealthy districts—such as Beverly Hills —have bitterly opposed this proposal, insisting that it would downgrade the quality of their educational program and new taxes would have to be raised merely to maintain their current level.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post, a long-time advocate of a statewide property tax, observed that if the legislature again rejects such a proposal it might turn to increased sales or income taxes.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, hailed the ruling as "correct and long overdue...There will now be a new impetus to achieve equalization. It may not come over night, but it will be achieved .

Chairman Leroy Greene of the Assembly Education Committee noted in the past statewide property tax bills have been killed because of the "selfishness" of welathy districts. He predicted the issue would be "appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court in short oder."

Dr. Tom Goodman, superintendent of the San Diego Unified School District, said the "courts have finally recognized that urban districts do have a need for added support. The court decision is a directive to the legislature to redesign the property tax system to finance schools."

Edar Egly, associate superintendent of San Francisco schools, said the legislature should realize that "to equalize dollars doesn't mean equalizing educational opportunities, because opportunities cost more in urban schools."

"It's about time," said Dr. Arnold Finch, superintendent of the Fresno City Unified School District. "School administrators have been saying for years there is no justification for one district to spend $600 on a student while another is spending $1,200. If we're going to stay with the property tax, it should be statewide."

Paul L. McKaskle, director of litigation for the Western Center of Law and Poverty in Los Angeles, which prosecuted the historic case, said it was "potentially the most important decision by the state Supreme Court this decade."

He said he doesn't expect the legislature to overhaul school financing until next year, but if it delays too long, "I think you'll see us in court again."

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, one of the defendants in the suit, praised the court action and said it is "unjust to ask homeowners to pay heavy property taxes for schools when islands of wealth in the state escape with a relatively light burden."

Henry Gunderson, president of the state board of education, also praised the decision as a step for "equal educational opportunity." The board supports a statewide property tax.

M. JUSTIN HERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—M. Justin Herman, controversial director of the San Francisco Redevelopment Authority and a nationally-known expert on urban renewal, collapsed and died in his home Monday. He was 62.

Herman's wife Gladys found her husband lying on the floor of their apartment overlooking San Francisco Bay. An aide said Herman "has not felt well for some time."

Herman and his wife lived in Sausalito from 1950 to 1965, before they moved to an apartment in the Golden Gateway, an area his agency was responsible for redeveloping.

While in Sausalito, Herman was a trustee of the library board and an officer of the Sausalito Citizens Council, as well as assistant chairman of the People-to-People program.

Mayor Joseph Alioto, commenting on Herman's sudden death, said:

"Without exaggeration, Justin Herman was the best public servant I have ever known, and probably the best in the country. He added great duty and greater strength to the city he loved. In his case it is literally true that he is irreplaceable."

Herman had headed the redevelopment agency for the past 12 years, and oversaw many urban renewal projects in the city.

His agency came under fire recently from minority groups and elderly residents for the Yerba Buena and Western Addition Redevelopment Projects, due largely to charges affected citizens were not given enough voice in planning and low income housing was being torn down without replacement.

BUSES DESTROYED IN PONTIAC, MICH.

Nixon Calls In HEW Boss To Discuss Issues; Pontiac One Of Big Hot Spots

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The start of new school terms in much of the nation this week, at times requiring increased busing of children to achieve more integration, generally went smoothly. But there were some problems.

The most dramatic defiance came in Pontiac, Mich., where explosives Monday night destroyed nine school buses and designed to carry out a court-ordered school desegregation program. Police said they found evidence of wires leading to nearby "incendiary devices."

There were moves to fight integration orders in Florida, Virginia, North Carolina, Alabama, Ohio, Georgia and other states. Most attention in the busing controversy has been centered in the South, where an estimated 350,000 children are expected to be riding buses to integrated schools this fall.

President Nixon, who has said he felt busing for integration purposes should be held to a minimum, scheduled a meeting today with Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot Richardson in San Clemente, Calif., to discuss that and other politically explosive issues. The Western White House sought to scotch speculation that Nixon and Richardson were at odds over busing.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed a motion with the 4th U. S. Circuit of Appeals to overturn last week's district court ruling in Norfolk, Va., that stayed the massive busing program scheduled to open there next week. Meanwhile, Virginia's Save Our Neighborhood Schools (SONS) organization planned a second antibusing rally in Norfolk Wednesday.

A formerly all-Indian school in Maxton, N. C., shut down Monday when a group of Lumbee Indian parents mobbed it and blocked the start of classes, remained closed today. There was no indication when it would reopen. Principal Danford Dial, who reported his life threatened, said, "The situation seems to have gotten to the point where it is brother against brother."

The Indian parents want their children sent to Indian schools instead of desegregated ones.

About 500 black parents marched on the school board at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Monday in protest against the busing of their children to formerly all-white schools. "If this is integration, we don't want it," said a spokesman, Greg Williams of Pompano Beach.

Legal maneuvering went right down to the wire.

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals ordered a federal district judge to take whatever action was necessary to remove a Georgia judge's injunction against a desegregation plan at Columbus, Ga. The state judge, Oscar D. Smith, had ordered a new or amended plan to one that provided for a 70 per cent white, 30 per cent black ratio and busing.

At Cincinnati, the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals studied a motion by the Kalamazoo, Mich., school board for a stay in a desegregation order providing for busing.

Attorney Avon Williams, representing black parents at Nashville, Tenn., asked the U.S. Supreme Court to reject an appeal by the Nashville-Davidson county school board from a desegregation plan requiring the busing of 46,000 of the area's 94,000 school children.

At Miami, Fla., the nation's sixth largest school system began a desegregation program calling for the busing of 42,000 of Dade County's 220,000 students. There were no major incidents. A program that buses 10,000 children got underway without incident at Columbia, S.C.

The program at Gretna, La., starting today, provides for the reassignment of 13,000 students with 3,000 of them, mostly black, to be bused.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace said Monday night he will ask the federal courts to spell out the circumstances under which parents may transfer children to schools of their choice to avoid busing.

And Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, calling the school issue the gravest threat to Georgia since Sherman's march to the sea, called on Gov. Jimmy Carter to risk jail if necessary to halt busing.

CONFUSION REIGNS

IRS Office Swamped With Freeze Inquiries

A small Internal Revenue Service Office in San Rafael has been snowed under with work trying to answer confusion about President Nixon's wage-price-rent freeze in addition to its normal duties.

Although beset with this extra chore, IRS officials say they can handle the workload unless the freeze, due to expire November 12, is extended beyond January.

Then the office would be "doubly snowed under," according to Revneue Officer Robert Yakerson, because after January the IRS become extremely busy collecting taxes.

Now the office is kept "pretty busy" helping daily more than 50 people who call or drop in wondering what the 90-day freeze means to them.

Most of the questions are directed to Frances Bowers, taxpayer service representative, who meets people at the front desk and tries to answer most of the phone calls. When she gets swamped, especially in the early morning, four revenue officers in the back room drop their work and lend a hand.

Ironically, the San Rafael office at 910 D Street is short two people because of a separate hiring freeze for federal employees.

Yakerson said the office should have seven people based on its workload, but two men have retired and haven't been replaced.

Mrs. Bowes went on vacation yesterday leaving only four men to handle the increased business.

Since the freeze the IRS office has found it knows most — but not all — the answers to the questions more than 200 Marinites have asked since last Tuesday.

Yakerson said he and 17 other Northern California revenue officers had to take a day-long seminar at the San Francisco Office of Emergency Preparedness to figure out what the freeze meant.

He came back to the San Rafael office with a manual containing some 60 sections of anticipated questions on the freeze.

According to Mrs. Bowers, most questions received by her office have involved teachers, who pose a special problem in that new contracts calling for higher wages date from July 1, but paychecks don't begin till the school year starts in September.

Originally, under the freeze higher paychecks were allowed only if the higher salaries were actually being paid prior to Aug. 15. But a new ruling eases that, she said, and permits the higher pay if the contract was signed before Aug. 15.

An often-heard complaint is about a $1 increase in phone bills, but Mrs. Bowers said the increase is valid because it went into effect July 1.

Probably the most confusing part of the freeze relates to insurance premiums, Yakerson said. Even though people are being charged higher premiums after Aug. 15, the higher price is valid because the increases had been approved by a state control board before that date, he explained.

The office has received few calls complaining of price and rental increases, Yakerson said.

When a complaint comes in, the office tries to settle it immediately by contacting the people involved and explain what can and cannot be done. "We try to handle complaints amiably by acquainting people with the law rather than beating them over the head," Yakerson said.

A formal complaint could end up in the U.S. District Attorney's office for prosecution but none has arisen so far in Marin, Yakerson said.

Young Voters Can't Ballot Just Anywhere

Voters under 21 no longer have to register where their parents live, but this does not mean they can vote wherever they want, Marin County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer said today.

Young voters still cannot register in Marin if they are from another county and intend to return to that county, he said.

The California Supreme Court, in a ruling Friday, overturned a decision by Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger that unmarried minors must register at the address of their parents.

Meyer, saying the ruling still left some voters confused, noted the result was "a far cry from being able to register anywhere they please."

The key, he said, is "intent to remain here after their education is completed." Meyer said that registrars will depend on the voter to determine his own intent to remain in the county.

Federal Judge Blocks Attempt To Halt Biggest Nuclear Blast

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal judge has rejected a second legal attempt to block plans for the biggest U.S. underground nuclear test ever conducted. It is set for this fall in the Aleutians.

District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr. ruled Monday against a group of scientists, environmentalists and antiwar organizations seeking delay or cancellation of the blast scheduled at Amchitka Island in early October.

The judge held that the test would comply with "all relevant laws and treaties," and that to abandon or postpone the project "may cost us our liberty."

The test, code-named Cannikin, is to prove out the nuclear warhead for the Spartan missile, the first of the one-two punch being developed for the nation's antiballistic missile system. On Monday, the Pentagon announced that an unarmed Spartan had made a successful intercept of a dummy warhead over the Pacific.

Just last Thursday, Hart turned down a request by 33 members of Congress to obtain a confidential report which they said advised President Nixon to veto the Atomic Energy Commission's Cannikin test plans.

Legal sources indicated that both of Hart's rulings would be appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

The suit he rejected Monday was brought by the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility and seven other organizations.

Both houses of Congress have approved funds for the test. The Senate version of the legislation would require specific approval by President Nixon, and he is expected to announce a decision on the test within the next few weeks.

AT SUMMER'S END

Children, in these waning days of summer, seem to figure out how to use most anything to have a good time (top), including this large concrete pipe in Crestmoor Park in Denver. And below, this youngster in Omaha decided to ride his bike into the Missouri River to cool off as temperatures in the area continued to soar.

Upgrading Of Delta Plan Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Higher water quality standards for the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta have drawn combined opposition from the State Department of Water Resources and the federal Bureau of Reclamation.

The higher standards, set last month by the state Water Resources Control Board, are aimed at preventing increased salt water intrusion in the Delta.

William Gianelli, state water resources director, said Monday "The board seems to impose upon the department and the bureau responsibility for guaranteeing a higher than natural quality of water in the delta area."

"This decision, even if the board goes along with our requests for clarification, will mean extra delta overflow over what we originally assumed would be met."

Gianelli also raised the possibility that the state will have to look to its north coast rivers for additional water sources, if it is to have enough for the State Water Project.

The higher standards will force both the state and federal water agencies to divert almost twice as much water through the delta as originally planned.

In its petition, the bureau argues the board "exceeded its jurisdiction" in setting the higher standards.

It said the board does not balance the needs of the delta and other areas.

The Haunted House Finds New Home

The Haunted House, an annual Halloween attraction for Marin youngsters, formerly held in San Rafael, will be scaring youngsters at a house in Novato this year.

The Novato Planning Commission last night gave the Jolly Roger Chapter, Children's Home Society of California, a permit to operate the Haunted House at 1485 South Novato Boulevard, Oct. 23-31.

In past years, the chapter has operated the home at the Old County Library, now demolished, and the Old County Courthouse, now being demolished.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

HEAD START — Granted Marin Headstart Inc. a permit to operate a program for low income children in the Presbyterian Church, 710 Wilson Avenue, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Mondays through Fridays.

PREZONING — Recommended prezoning 55 acres south of San Marin Drive at Seventh Street extended as limited agricultural with minimum lot size of one-half acre, and 3.5 acres south of Center Road, west of Eucalyptus Avenue, for single-family homes.

TENTATIVE MAP — Approved a tentative map of St. Francis Heights No. 5, seven lots on 2.56 acres at the end of Fabian Court, submitted by North Marin Investors.

TOWNHOUSES — Approved precise plans by B. D. Schultz for 12 townhouse units on two lots on the south side of San Marin Drive, east of San Mateo Way.

Hub Horsing Around With Ideas

San Anselmo planning commissioners, exchanging ideas last night on how to corral the city's horses, came up with more possibilities than they had time to discuss.

According to Catherine Mullins, secretary to the planning commission, each member presented an outline of his ideas concerning the city's proposed large animal ordinance.

Stymied by the variety and unable to agree the six-member commission appointed a three-member subcommittee to combine the reports and prepare a first draft of the ordinance.

About 25 residents — most pro-horse — attended the meeting but were not allowed to speak. The commission set no time limit on its subcommittee and said there would be more discussion when the first draft has been completed plus an advertised public hearing before an ordinance is passed.

According to Mrs. Mullins, at present San Anselmo has no ordinance regarding keeping and caring for large animals; the city does not require them to be registered or inspected.

Woman Says Boyfriend Killed Four

DRIGGS, Idaho (UPI)—A 22-year-old woman says her boyfriend, nicknamed "Evil", shot three brothers to death and wounded two others in Idaho and killed a man in Saugus, Calif., in order to steal cars.

Joyce Diane Turner, 22 Elko, Nevada, signed a statement Monday saying she saw her boyfriend Michael Wren Rennpage, 28, Sacramento, Calif., shoot all six persons, the sheriff's office said.

The bodies of the three brothers, Ruben De Luna, 18, Antonia, 17, and Robert, 16, all Mexican-American farm workers, were flown from Idaho Falls to Bryant, Texas today for burial.

Miss Turner, who has a tatoo on her chest reading "Property of Evil," was arraigned with Rennpage Saturday on first degree murder charges. She said her boyfriend shot the youths in order to steal cars after their own vehicle broke down.

Teton County Sheriff Alden Stevens said the young woman told him that Joe Warmuth, Saugus, Calif., was the first victim. She said Rennpage killed him near Saugus Aug. 7, stole his car and hid the body in a culvert.

California authorities were traveling to Driggs to pick up the statement and investigate the alleged murder.

She said Rennpage shot Richard De Luna, 18, a cousin of the slain brothers, and Driggs Town Marshall Melvin Jones, both of whom survived the ordeal and remained hospitalized, the sheriff said.

Richard De Luna told police a man approached the car Saturday, where he and his cousins were parked on a desolate road under the shadows of the Grand Teton mountains, and shot the driver. He said the rest of them tried to subdue the gunman but were picked off — all shot point blank in the head.

De Luna said he pretended he was dead until he was able to crawl away and go to a farmhouse where someone alerted authorities. De Luna returned with the sheriff and Dr. Kitchener Head. The suspect, unable to start the car, fired at Jones, hitting him in the chest.

Jones, however, jumped the man, wrenched the pistol from him, and hit him over the head with it, fracturing his skull.

The two young suspects were being housed in separate jails and were expected to receive court-appointed attorneys within a few days.

Slogan Change At State Fair

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Troubled by confrontations between teen-agers and police, the 1971 State Fair changed its slogan today from "The Fun One" to "Make It a Million."

Officials said in a statement "now that the problems are under control," everyone should come to the fair and push attendance over the million mark.

Three nights last week rock-throwing youths battled riot-equipped police. The teen-agers smashed police cars, set fires and broke windows. About 75 persons were arrested. The fair ends Sept. 8.

Novato Sanitary Budget: $318,500

The Novato Sanitary District board last night adopted a 1971-72 operating budget of $318,500 and cut the tax rate for most residents 33.6 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph said the tax rate was set at 37.9 cents in the Novato plant area, which serves the majority of residents, as compared to 71.5 cents last year.

The reduction came mainly because last year's 35 cent capital improvement tax rate was replaced by a bond levy of 2.4 cents, Joseph explained.

The breakdown is 31.5 cents for operating budget, the same as last year, four cents for 1955 bond repayment, down one cent, and 2.4 cents for 1970 bond repayment.

In the area not served by the Novato plant, the tax rate will be 33.9 cents, down 32.6 cents from last year, he said.

Although the rates have dropped, there has been a 16 per cent increase in assessed valuation in the district, Joseph said.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

RETIREMENT — Passed a resolution of intention to place employees solely on the public employees retirement system, thereby relieving them of making Social Security payments.

PLANNING — Named Joseph as the district's ex-officio member on the Marin City County Planning Council.

SUBDIVISIONS — Approved plans to serve Parkhaven, a 214-unit townhouse development by Boise Cascade Building Co. between Novato Boulevard and Novato Creek and Woodland Heights, a 55-lot subdivision above Kadon Park.

Six Seek Four Seats In Bolinas District

Six persons have filed candidacy papers for four seats on the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board which will be up for election Nov. 2.

Deadline for filing nomination petitions with the Marin County Elections Division was 5 p.m. yesterday.

Two directors, Sherman R. Smith and Edwin A. Cadogan are up for recall in the election and the terms of two other board members, Jose A. Silva and Clem C. Slater expire in December.

William E. Niman, a teacher at Bolinas School, has filed for Smith's seat in the recall election and Gregory C. Hewlett of the Bolinas Future Studies Center has filed for the post now held by Cadogan. The recall was initiated by the studies center which opposes an $8.1 million sewage disposal system for Bolinas and Stinson Beach being planned by the Bolinas Utility District, in conjunction with the Stinson Beach County Water District.

Slater has filed for a second term on the utility district board, but Silva, who has been a director since the district was formed in 1967, said he will not seek another term.

Other candidates for the seats now held by Silva and Slater are: Marguerite K. Harris, a reading teacher at Bolinas School; Orville Schell, a journalist and Russell R. Riviere of the studies center.

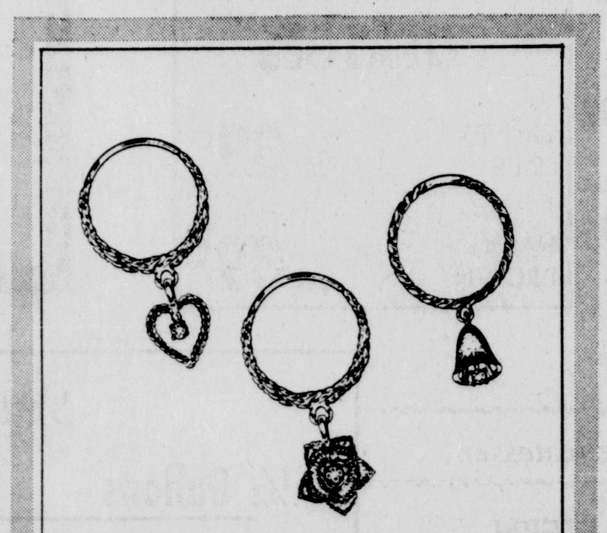

Silva, who was a director of the Bolinas Public Utility District before it merged with the Bolinas Public Utility District to form the current utility district, has been chairman of the board since the district began (he resigned the post for three months earlier this year, but was reappointed chairman when director Cadogan, who replaced him, resigned as chairman).

Silva told the Independent-Journal being a member of the board was "a thankless job, which takes too much of my time so that I can't do the things I want to do. I've donated enough time to the district," he said.

San Francisco To Get Funds For Integration

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco will soon get nearly $2 million in federal funds to help the city integrate its elementary schools.

School officials said Monday they had worked out a compromise plan with federal officials under which they agreed to integrate the faculties of three secondary schools in exchange for eligibility for funds under the Emergency School Assistance Program.

San Francisco had applied for $5.5 million, but the government had threatened to give them no money at all because the city's integration plan is for elementary schools and the money is supposed to go to districts which integrate their high schools.

But the compromise agreed to Monday will find the faculties of the three secondary schools most out of balance with the guidelines for racial balance be brought into conformity. These include Mission and Poly High Schools and Portola Junior High School.

Stanley Pottinger, director of the Office for Civil Rights, said that $2 million was available to California as a whole.

A small grant of about $250,000 last week went to the only other California district under court order to integrate, Oxnard.

"San Francisco will get all the rest of the $2 million, Pottinger promised.

Count Against Panther Dropped

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Superior Court has dismissed charges that a Black Panther Party member assaulted policemen in a 1968 shoot-out near the San Francisco Hall of Justice.

The dismissal of charges against Wilfred Holiday, 37, came on a motion Monday from the district attorney's office "in the interests of justice."

Rom Bondoc, attorney for Holiday, said three juries have failed to reach a verdict in the case.

William Brent, a Panther who was indicted at the same time, hijacked an airplane to Cuba in 1969.

TOUGH STORY — Astronaut Joe Henry Engle says the hardest part about losing his seat on Apollo 17, the last manned U.S. lunar mission, was telling his children he would not walk on the moon. Engle was replaced by geologist-astronaut Dr. Harrison (Jack) Schmitt.

Police Station Raid May Have Been Weapons Foray

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The shotgun attack that riddled a police station, killing a popular desk sergeant and wounding a woman dispatcher, may have been part of an attempt by as many as five persons to steal an arsenal of weapons, homicide investigators said Monday.

"Indications are that more than two persons were involved," said Lt. Charles Ellis, who heads the investigation into the death of Sgt. John V. Young.

Ten inspectors were assigned full-time to the case. Extra guards with shotguns patrolled all city stations and other police installations.

"We're under full security," said Supervising Captain Jeremiah Taylor. The new measures augmented existing precautions put into effect after a dynamite blast killed one officer and wounded eight others at Park Station near Haight-Ashbury in February, 1970.

Chief of Inspectors Charles Barca said he was convinced Sunday's attack was meant "to wipe out the station—no survivors."

"We know that shotguns and a 9 mm automatic pistol were used," Ellis told newsmen. He said more than 18 shotgun blasts had been fired, plus pistol shots, leading investigators to believe as many as five persons were involved.

A $10,000 reward was offered for information leading to the killer or killers who entered the Ingleside Station about 9:40 p.m. Sunday night and unleashed a hail of shotgun and pistol fire through a small circular speaking hole in a bullet-proff glass door. Sgt. Young, 51, slumped over at his desk, hit fatally by a blast in the chest. Mrs. Ellen Lipney, 30, a dispatcher, was wounded in the shoulder in a second blast and another officer scrambled safely behind cover.

Bail Surcharge Hit By Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California's State Court of Appeal ruled Monday that a state law providing for a surcharge on bail posted in criminal cases is unconstitutional.

The decision struck down a Penal Code section which had required judges to add a 25 per cent "penalty assessment" on bail posted by criminal case defendants.

Both the State and U.S. constitutions were violated because they contain bans against excessive bail, the court ruled.

Money from the surcharge had been used for the state peace officers training fund in cases where defendants failed to appeal in court and judges declared the bail forfeited.

Judge's Ruling On Citing Former GI Blow To Medina Prosecution

ATLANTA (UPI)—A federal judge has ruled that the army cannot cite a former soldier for contempt for refusing to testify in the court-martial of Capt. Ernest L. Medina.

The ruling Monday was regarded as a setback in the prosecution's attempt to pin responsibility for the My Lai massacre on the 34-year old career officer from Montrose, Colo.

The witness is Frederick Widmer, of Lower Burrell, Pa. The army said his testimony was essential but Widmer twice refused to testify on grounds of self-incrimination.

Medina, commander of "Charlie" Company during a search-and-destroy mission at My Lai on March 16, 1968, has been charged with personally killing two persons at the Vietnamese hamlet and of doing nothing to keep troops under his command from killing 100 more.

Widmer was granted immunity for his testimony under the Uniform Crime Control Act of 1970 and the military judge, Col. Kenneth A. Howard, ordered him to testify.

But Widmer claimed the grant of immunity was not broad enough and Howard cited Widmer for contempt, setting up the appeal to the federal court.

Medina's court-martial was recessed until Sept. 8 to allow for the court test. Monday, U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moye told the government that "at least one court of appeals has held the immunity statues unconstitutional" and therefore it could not now prosecute him for contempt.

Moye said it was possible that Widmer could be prosecuted by the South Vietnamese in the death of a child in Vietnam and for that reason immunity by the U.S. government would have no value.

Moye gave the government until Sept. 8 to file a brief on the constitutionality of the immunity law. He said he would then ask the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to hold a hearing on it.

Defense attorneys said they will insist the court-martial proceed on schedule on Sept. 8. Army prosecutor Maj. William G. Eckhardt said he did not know the government's next move.

ASTRONAUT BUMPED

Toughest Thing: Facing The Kids

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — When astronaut Joe Henry Engle came home from work Aug. 10, he had some bad news.

"I guess the toughest thing that I can remember doing for a while was explaining to my kids that I wasn't going to be going to the moon," Engle told newsmen Monday.

The 39-year-old native of Abilene, Kan., was scheduled under normal rotation to pilot the Apollo 17 spaceship to the moon in December, 1972, the last scheduled manned lunar landing.

But he was replaced by Dr. Harrison H. (Jack) Schmitt, the only geologist in the astronaut corps.

Engle, who trained for more than a year with Apollo 17 crewmen Eugene A. Cernan and Ronald E. Evans, said he learned Aug. 10 from Adm. Alan B. Shepard, chief of the astronaut office, he had been bumped.

"It's a lot like when you lose someone very near to you from something like cancer. You know that it's there, and you know what's going to happen, and you know pretty much when it's going to happen.

"So, you tell yourself and prepare yourself, and you think you're all ready for the most probable thing. And, when it happens, it doesn't do much good at all. It still hurts awfully much."

Engle said he was convinced Schmitt, 36, was qualified to be the Apollo 17 lunar module pilot.

The spaceflight is the last of the Apollo series, and Schmitt's presence will fulfill the efforts of many scientists to get a professional geologist on the moon.

Engle, who flew the X15 rocket plane on test flights high enough for an astronaut rating —50 miles—said he will not drop out of the space program. He said he would remain to work on the space shuttle. The space agency plans to use the shuttle as early as 1977 to fly men and equipment into Earth orbit.

Explorer Says Islands Not Icebergs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sailor Robert Griffith says the three islands he discovered between New Zealand and Cape Horn appeared nearly 1,000 feet above the water — too high to be icebergs.

Griffith, a former Marin County veterinarian and Inverness resident, told UPI Monday that there was one large land mass flanked by two smaller ones. They were snow-covered as most of the shorelines and islands in the Antarctic region.

Griffith sailed into San Francisco Bay Friday to report the discovery of the three uncharted islands. He made the find while circumnavigating the Antarctic continent in his 53-foot cutter, Awahnee.

"The islands don't show on any nautical chart that I have and I'm going to report their exact location to the proper authorities as soon as possible."

He said he and his crew of six viewed the islands from about seven miles and "we didn't go any closer because of the danger of ice."

The boat was 11 days out of New Zealand and there was increasing ice in the area, Griffith said. He said just before spotting the islands he had to turn the boat around and retrace his course through the ice.

The boat was sailing into the twilight when he noticed the "three prominent masses."

Commuter Tax Ruling Upheld

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The state Court of Appeals yesterday upheld a lower court ruling won by Marin and other Bay Area counties against the commuter employment tax that San Francisco tried to collect.

San Francisco enacted the tax Aug. 21, 1968, to levy 1 per cent on the gross earnings of persons working in San Francisco but living in other counties.

Marin, Contra Costa, Alameda, Santa Clara and San Mateo counties joined in suing the county and its tax collector, Londo Casassa, to block collection of the tax.

Yesterday's appellate court ruling held that "any unnecessary barriers which impede the mobility of citizens of the state or limit their choice of employment are contrary to state policy."

Witness Says He Felt My Lai Normal Operation

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)—A retired Army sergeant who kept a running log on the mission in which Vietnamese civilians were killed at My Lai said today he felt at the time it was a normal combat operation.

William J. Johnson, a former master sergeant now working for the city of Columbus, Ga., testified at the court martial trial of Col. Oran K. Henderson, accused of failing to report war crimes to his superiors.

Lt. Col. Frank J. Dorsey, Henderson's chief military defense attorney, asked Johnson —whose account was based on reports to the command center by radio —if anything about transmissions from the scene of the action on March 16, 1968, "struck you as other than a normal combat operation?"

"Sir," Johnson replied, "I felt it was just another operation."

Johnson said he did not think anything was amiss even though the number of Vietnamese deaths reported far exceeded American casualties. "I was proud of it, sir," he said. "I don't feel that to have a successful operation that you have to have a lot of GI's killed."

The witness said several entries in the log identified Vietnamese victims as carrying weapons, documents and other military gear. But asked if the log positively identified the dead as Viet Cong, he replied: "No, sir."

A number of prosecution witnesses have testified that Henderson did try to investigate the incident. The colonel, commander of the 11th Infantry Brigade at the time, is specifically charged with dereliction of duty, failure to report war crimes and lying to a special panel which investigated the operation.

Losses From Business Inventory Tax Restored

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Reimbursement for revenues lost by local governments due to the reduction of property tax on business inventories was made today to the State's counties.

Marin County's share was $286,750 and Sonoma County's, $616,871, according to State Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

This represented 75 per cent of $382,333 due Marin County and $822,494 due Sonoma County. The remaining 25 per cent will be paid next April.

(George R. Donaldson, Marin County assistant auditor--controller, said that this year's business inventory tax loss has not been figured for Marin County, but that if the county receives the full $382,333, it should make up nearly all of the loss.

(He noted that the state still owes Marin County $54,527 on last year's reimbursement and said this money will probably be paid in April 1972 which will make up 100 per cent of the tax loss in fiscal 1970-71.)

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

If Medicine Fails, Just Increase Dosage

A story that may have been a page one splash in some Oregon papers last week failed even to get a paragraph in most California newspapers we saw (including this one). But we think it deserves mention.

It related that Dr. Peter Batten, health officer of Marion County, Ore., for six years, had decided to quit.

There's no reason, of course, why a health officer's quitting his job in Marion County should be news in Marin County. It was Dr. Batten's reason that was interesting.

HE SAID HE WAS resigning rather than administer new Oregon laws which require health officers to offer family planning and birth control services to all persons over 15 who seek them — instead of only to married persons or unmarried minors on parental request, as formerly.

These laws merely introduce in Oregon what already has been the rule in California.

Dr. Batten said they force him to be a party to encouraging sexual promiscuity among unmarried teen-agers.

"Family planning advocates say the goal is to reduce the number of unwanted babies," Batten was quoted, "and it appears all else becomes secondary."

Moral and religious values are ignored, he held, yet they constitute "the one absolutely essential ingredient of every social program."

The Marion County health officer acknowledged that he was taking a minority view. "I'm flying in the face of the times," he said.

WE'RE NOT so sure. He certainly is in the minority among health officers. But it may be that a majority of the public would agree that moral and religious values comprise "the one absolutely essential ingredient of every social program."

Nobody's ever asked to find out.

Many social programs are foisted upon us that we didn't seek and perhaps don't want. Somebody, who pretends to know best by virtue of his position or education, decrees they should be done. His professional colleagues go along with him. They sell the program to the lawmakers. Nobody really sounds out the public.

THE OSTENSIBLE purpose of free-for-all distribution of birth control information and other "sex education" is to reduce illegitimacy and venereal disease. Yet since these programs started — through the schools, the public health departments, and other channels — both illegitimacy and venereal disease have risen more rapidly than ever before.

When anyone points this out, the answer is: The programs have not gone far enough; there must be more of the same.

If the same kind of logic were applied to medicine, when a dosage failed to allay the disease it would be steadily increased — until the patient died.

It would appear much more sensible to try to find out what need ingredient was missing from the medicine. In this case, it might very well be just what Dr. Batten cited: moral and religious values.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Resistance Seems Crumbling To State-Operated Lottery

By JOSEPH L. DAHN

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — While it's not likely to happen during this session of the legislature, or even in the immediate future, chances are good California will look to additional revenue from gambling.

Horse racing — with on-track betting only — has been popular with fans, not to mention a popular source of state revenue, for years.

Horse racing, of course, is tolerated because it helps "improve the breed." Fine. When was the last time you saw a California farmer riding a plow behind a horse — or using the same means of locomotion to get his crops to market? The U.S. Army, which had a real stake in the matter a few decades ago, gave up on the horse cavalry three wars back.

NO SUCH rationalization has been needed in the case of local option permitting draw poker -- or maybe it has. In this state, the popular five-card diversion is not a game of chance but of skill. And who can deny it?

American morals have been changing (were they ever really static?) at what seems to be an accelerating rate over the past few years, but little has been done, in this state, at least, in regard to the old moral strictures against sinful gambling.

This last bastion of morality may be ready to crumble in the face of ever-increasing costs of local, state and federal government.

AS EVIDENCE of the manner in which Californians regard gambling — they are estimated to pour $185 million yearly into the easily accessible gambling hells (to use an earlier generation's term) of sister state Nevada.

Another neighboring (if not sister) state, Baja California, has also drained of Alta California dollars with Sunday horse racing.

And thanks to gambling, Nevada has no income tax.

During the legislative session just ended, nine measures opening the state, to one extent or another, to gambling were introduced. All were introduced by Democrats, and all died.

BUT THE STRONGEST evidence in support of legalized gambling came recently from a Republican, Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., who represents Merced, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties.

Murphy mailed questionnaires to 70,000 registered voters in his district, and received replies from more than 14,000. He asked if his constituents would be in favor of a state lottery in support of public schools.

Slightly more than 62 per cent — that's better than three out of five — said they would indeed favor a state lottery to ease their school tax bills.

All three state lottery for education bills introduced this year died in committee. So did bills legalizing greyhound racing, and jai alai. No luckier were measures that would have created a state gambling commission to study the idea of casinos on the California side of Lake Tahoe, or okaying city and county local option for charity bingo.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti says all gambling proposals are dead — for this year.

He has indicated he might support off-track betting legislation after he takes a close look at the way it turns out in New York State.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Ecumenical Association Dependent On Foundation

Saturday's descriptive Independent-Journal article, "Ecumenical Slogan — Do It Yourself," omitted one vital cog in this association's brief history — the role of the San Francisco Foundation. Cultural Exchange Program Success

Your middle of the front page article on July 30 was very distressing to us who have participated in Mr. Carlos C. Carmona's intercultural exchange program which he created some 10 years ago to enhance communication and understanding between the people of La Paz, Baja California, and the United States. Granted, your article did not say any of the charges printed were true, but giving such importance in your paper to these charges will indeed make it difficult for people in this area to continue to participate in what we have found to be a wonderful way for our children and us to learn to speak the Spanish language and to know and appreciate the people of another country, namely La Paz, Baja California.

Last year we were most fortunate to have Mr. Edmundo Gonzalez's son "Mundo" stay with us. He was an outstanding young man and won all our hearts. His manner and grace were a tremendous compliment to the people of La Paz.

Our son Lewis spent five weeks in La Paz this summer as the guest of the Augusto Raul Jimenez family and is constantly referring to the marvelous experiences he had with them and at the school where Mr. Carmona and his wife taught and on the trips that Mr. Carmona and others took him on. The generosity, love, and affection of the Jiminez family deeply moved us and our son.

Now, Mr. Aurelio Martinez's son "Pepe" is staying with us. He has become a real enthusiastic sailor and is an outstanding ambassador for La Paz. We will be sorry to see him leave. Jorge Jiminez has just spent a week visiting with us at our Mt. Shasta cabin and with friends of ours who have a boy his age.

We feel Mr. Carmona's program is a huge success and that he should be complimented for a job well done . . .

Majority Must Restore Government

If we are truly a "democracy", then the will of the majority would be heard and carried out in our governing policies. We, the majority, are cognizant of a breakdown and are horrified that revolutionary, minority groups, who are void of allegiance or patriotism to their county, can and are inflicting their will upon us. We are being forced into submission and compelled to accept a despotic rather than democratic state. The tragedy at San Quentin proves the power of the despot; is it not time for the majority to be heard? It is the bounden duty of each of us, who cares, to become involved in the rehabilitation of our government.

I-J Draws Brickbat For Ignoring Swim Meet

Last Sunday, Aug. 22, approximately 800 children participated in an all-day swimming meet at the College of Marin. Marinwood, Lucas Valley, Terra Linda, Tiburon, Ann Curtis, Rafael Racquet, San Marin, Strawberry and Sleepy Hollow competed for the county championship, plus medals and ribbons. I think this function pretty well represented all communities in the county, yet, not one word in the I-J.

If a small group of radical misfits demonstrate or riot (and they certainly don't represent the majority of our young people) they hit the front page.

A brickbat for the I-J.

'Day At State Fair For The Whole Family'

My two children, ages 10 and 11, and I want to thank our governor and the executive committee of the state fair for "a day at the fair that was designed for the whole family." The unique blend of senseless violence by a few "punks" against the police who were riot equipped (which means they couldn't even throw rocks back!), the low arrest number against the number of police hurt on Wednesday night shows what we witnessed. Along with other fairgoers we were tear-gassed. It was like taking someone else's medicine. Even with that we still would of sided with the police against the youths' taunts and threats.

We won't be back next year.

Develop Habits That Save Good Earth

Praise for last night's (Aug. 26) editorial on "ecology campaign". Ecology begins at home and learning to live with the daily routine of saving our bottles, jars and cans has become a habit in our home. Every other Saturday, we return cleaned glass, flattened tin or aluminum containers to the recycling center at Redwood High School, where you may also leave your newspapers. If we expect the recycling centers to remain open, the public will have to use them as they are meant to be used.

There are other "habits" which families can perform such as using biodegradable soap, not detergent, fewer paper (white only) goods, conserving water and many more.

As was mentioned, it takes little time or effort to get in on the mainstream of the ecology movement. If each family would take a few extra minutes to try a nice "habit," perhaps this good earth of ours will become a little cleaner for us and future generations to come.

Nixon's Visit To China May Come Late In October

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — The boldest diplomatic initiative in this century is still very much on the rails. Henry Kissinger and his staff, in the closest collaboration with President Nixon, are working almost literally day and night on the details of the mission to Peking and the meeting with Chou En-Lai and Mao Tse-Tung.

The best guess now is that the trip will take place in late October, some time after the debate in the United Nations General Assembly on the two Chinas. This will almost certainly end with the seating of the People's Republic not only in the general assembly but in the security council as well. Then the expectation is that Chiang Kai-Shek will retire to the solitary splendor of Taiwan.

THERE HAVE BEEN dire reports that the President will be humiliated with nothing to show for his 10,000-mile journey. These reports are given no credence at the White House. Those following the exchanges almost weekly between Washington and Peking through a variety of channels over the past two years discount such reports completely.

They are convinced of Chou's seriousness in seeking an understanding with the United States. They do not speculate on motives, although they do not discount his concern over the massed million or more Russian troops on the Chinese border.

As now conceived, the visit will take the following course. The President will have extensive talks first with Chou and then with Mao Tse-Tung. They will agree on later exchanges at commercial, cultural and diplomatic levels. These exchanges will be the substance of the communique issued at the end of the visit. It is possible that a visit to the U.S. by Chou will be one result. Formal recognition between the two Pacific powers is years away. American troops in Taiwan, military aid for Chiang, the presence of the Seventh Fleet in Taiwanese straits — all these issues must be resolved.

AFTER PEKING, Mr. Nixon will turn tourist. He will visit Shanghai and perhaps other principal industrial and commercial centers. This is one of the aspects of the journey he is most looking forward to.

Every possible precaution is being taken to prevent any untoward event that might prevent the visit from taking place. All overflights of Chinese territory have been cancelled. The Samos satellites that circle the world are at such an altitude that they do not violate Chinese air space.

Many problems are still to be solved, however. At least 700 newspaper correspondents have indicated a desire to accompany the President. This is obviously impossible, since it would mean at least three chartered jets in addition to the three in the official party. The host country will be given the privilege of setting the list of correspondents, which will not be more than 100 or 150. Peking is short on interpreters, adequate hotel space and limousines to transport a mass invasion.

WHILE PUBLIC opinion polls show a generous majority in favor of the initiative, it has generated a volume of hate mail. One correspondent taken with some seriousness because of his position wrote to President Nixon saying he could present documents showing that Kissinger was a member of the Communist party. Among his associates Kissinger laughs wryly at how he has become a villain of the left because of his alleged hawkishness on Vietnam and now a villain of the extreme right because of his overtures to Peking.

The hate mail undoubtedly comes from the lunatic fringe. What is amazing is that, after such a long campaign of hate propaganda beginning with the downfall of Chiang Kai-shek in 1949, the American people should welcome with such eager curiosity the opening up of the largest country in the world. Scientists, journalists, tourists, politicians in the thousands are applying for visas to view the mystery beyond the great wall.

It is a tribute to Mr. Nixon's prescience that he took this initiative. In light of his own participation in the hate China campaign, he might have expected quite a different reaction. But he has proved over the years that he is an astute politician, and China and 1972 can hardly be put down as a coincidence.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Same Cast Still Plays In Dominican Tragedy

By PHIL NEWSOM

The years have gone by and since 1966 the Dominican Republic has known relative peace but the script still reads the same and even the leading roles are played pretty much by the same cast of characters.

There are even those who profess to see in today's events a resemblance to the situation which preceded the 1965 uprising in which some 3,000 persons died and which ended only after massive intervention by the United States.

TWO OBSCURE news items illustrate the point.

One reported the finding of the bodies of two unidentified youths on the sports field of a Santo Domingo high school. Both had been beaten. They were the 26th and 27th persons to have suffered similar fates in recent weeks.

The other item reported a chamber of deputies rejection by a vote of 44 to 14 of charges brought against the government of former President Juan Bosch. Bosch, president from 1962 to 1963, had denounced what he called a "wave of official crimes and physical and moral outrages."

Bosch, a leader of the noncommunist left, has played a leading, if ineffectual, role in Dominican politics since before the assassination in 1961 of the dictator Rafael L. Trujillo. Elected president in 1962 in the country's first free election in 38 years, Bosch was ousted less than a year later by a rightwing military coup.

ANOTHER LEADING character is President Joaquin Balaguer, a one-time Trujillo follower now serving his second term as elected president.

His opponents accuse him of taking several leaves from Trujillo's book to preserve the country's stability, including political assassination.

A third figure in and out of Dominican affairs for many years is Gen. Elias Wessin, whose latest attempt at kingmaking ended in an unsuccessful coup earlier this summer. He was exiled to Spain and currently is reported in Panama.

EVEN THE COUNTRY'S problems are old ones.

Balaguer has boasted of "an economic boom unprecedented in the history of the Dominican Republic."

But it is a prosperity of chief benefit to Balaguer's followers, skipping entirely that 70 to 80 per cent of Santo Domingo's 800,000 population who are unemployed.

The city's population has doubled since 1960, giving it one of the worst urban crises in all of Latin America.

Agriculture is the country's economic backbone, yet it lies in the hands mostly of a wealthy few with holdings of up to 100,000 acres.

AN AGRARIAN reform program aimed at redistribution of the land succeeded in settling only 7,000 families in eight years.

Balaguer's technique for keeping himself in office has included government jobs for some of his opponents, a liberal view toward army corruption and a huge public works program. Working for him also is the failure of his opponents to form any workable coalition.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

San Anselmo Study Could Spark Ross Valley Changes

A little-publicized survey which has been commissioned by San Anselmo city fathers could be a forerunner of major changes in the Ross Valley — and might even revive an old dream for some of a City and County of Marin.

The Hub City, plagued with city facilities that are old and need expensive repairs and an income based primarily on taxes from homeowners, decided to have an outsider take a look at city services.

Last week a Berkeley firm was commissioned to do a study of services provided by the city and other districts that serve San Anselmo, and also to question residents about what they expect from local government.

The survey is also designed to take a look at financing.

Possible outcome of the study would be a recommendation that a single civic unity in the Ross Valley might be more efficient.

A SHORT ARTICLE published last week in a San Francisco paper giving the tax rate for that city (which is also a county) is in complete contrast with the situation in Marin.

The multiplicity of cities, school districts, sewerage districts and community services districts, to say nothing of taxing agencies such as the mosquito abatement districts, makes it necessary to print dozens of tax rates for Marin residents.

Whether a proliferation of taxing agencies such as Marin has brings about more efficient and cheaper services than in a larger entity has probably never really been researched in Marin.

Possibly the San Anselmo study may give some of the answers.

IN THE NEWSPAPER accounts of funerals for those slain in the tragic violence at San Quentin, there was no mention of the two convicts who seem to have been innocent bystanders killed because they wouldn't participate.

One of the men, John Linn, was given a funeral in his hometown, Fillmore, in Ventura County. Linn, who had been in trouble with the law since his early teens, was never forgotten by his family.

A middle-aged San Francisco couple used to attend every court session at which he appeared and they often visited him in prison. They described themselves as "representing his family" who couldn't come north.

The other dead inmate, Ronald Kane, apparently was not fortunate enough to have a family who stuck by him. His body was unclaimed and he received a state-expense funeral last week.

Chipper Recon Flight Can Be Deadly

By STEWART KELLERMAN

FLYING OVER HILL X, Vietnam (UPI)—It was one of those easy missions, but we tried to keep from taking it for granted. It's dangerous to relax on the easy ones; they turn out to be the easiest to botch up.

Our job was to fly a small South Vietnamese reconnaissance team near the Nui Ba Ho Mountain Marine outpost, overrun by Communists Aug. 14. South Vietnamese Marines recaptured the base the next day, but Communists were still occupying strategic positions on the sides of the 1,800-foot mountain.

I was just along for the ride, uncomfortably bundled up in an oversize flying helmet and a "chicken plate" protective vest, sitting in the back seat of the U.S. command chopper-a tiny OH6 light observation helicopter.

We were flying at a relatively safe 3,000 feet. A 51-caliber antiaircraft gun could hit our chopper, but the Communists probably wouldn't risk their ammo with the five other American helicopters on the mission flying lot lower.

We took off one by one Tuesday afternoon from the dirt helicopter pad at the Mai Loc Marine Base, 12 below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Vietnam. The whirling rotor blades of the choppers whipped up so much dust the pad was covered by a giant brown cloud after we all lifted off.

We could see the town of Mai Loc below us, sitting sleepily a grassy valley, sun reflected off the tin roofs of the wooden shacks. Dirt roads criss-crossed the surrounding green countryside like the lines on an old man's forehead.

We had to try hard to keep ourselves alert. It was easy to be lulled into a false sense of security watching the clouds floating like cotton candy above us and the shadows of our choppers darting across the earth below.

Lt. Brian K. Roth, 24, Ellentown, Pa., pushed forward on the stick of the scout helicopter—another OH6—and zoomed low as he approached Nui Ba HO, four miles west of Mai Loc.

He made a low pass around the mountain to find an LZ (landing zone) to drop the six recon Marines. Just as he reached a likely area, his head jerked to one side and his heart jumped. Right smack in the middle was a pit holding a deadly 51-caliber antiaircraft gun.

"Fiftyone pit" he shouted over the radio and waited to be blasted out of the sky by the Communist gunners.

W. O. Larry Dunagan, 21, Dacula, Ga., and W. O. Robert H. Lee, 23, Indian Harbor Beach, Flam, the pilots of two AH1 Cobra gunships flying above to protect the Scout, prepared for action.

"Inbound," Dunagan said, and rolled his Cobra toward the ground. Roth began zig-zagging to avoid getting shot, but a couple of seconds passed without any fire. Maybe the gun wasn't manned. Maybe the gunners were taken by surprise and didn't have time to fire. Or maybe they just decided to hide in a nearby bunker.

"Hell, that was close," Roth said. "I flew right over it. It was about 20 feet away. I'd have been greased in nothing flat if they shot at me."

Two UH1 Huey helicopters circled slowly a few hundred feet below our command chopper—one carrying the six-man recon patrol and the other with five U.S. infantrymen to be dropped to the ground in case a chopper was downed.

Roth made two more low passes around Nui Ba Ho, flying few feet above treetop level before he found a nearby hilltop that looked like a good LZ site.

"Okay, mark the LZ," Dunagan said over the radio.

"Roger," Roth answered and his crew tossed out a purple smoke grenade.

The scout bird whirled away and the two Cobras zoomed down and blasted the surrounding area with rockets and deadly cannister shells loaded with nails. A dozen puffs of white smoke rose from the ground where the rockets hit.

The Huey carrying the six Marines swept low around Nui Ba Ho and dropped to the LZ. In 10 seconds, the Marines were on the ground running for cover in the surrounding jungles and the Huey was wheeling skyward like a paper plate caught in a cyclone.

We headed for Quang Tri, home base for U.S. helicopter crews operating near the DMZ, leaving the Marines on the ground to search for Communists and walk back on their own.

Dunagan said the mission went according to plan except for spotting the antiaircraft gun. "It shakes you up when you spot one," he said.

"It went okay today," Lee said. "We didn't get shot at and there was no trouble on the ground. But we got 51-cal fire two days ago and one of us got wounded in the same area."

They were lucky and felt good about it. It was time for a cold beer and a little rest before the next job. And maybe a prayer, also.

Everything You Always Wanted To Know About The Freeze

WASHINGTON — Here are some questions which you have probably been asking concerning the Nixon administration's wage-price freeze:

Q — Why is there a wage-price freeze in the United States?

A — Because President Nixon's economic game plan didn't work.

Q — What was his economic game plan?

A — To lick inflation by having a reasonable amount of unemployment.

Q — What happened?

A — He was only successful in 50 per cent of his goals. He didn't lick inflation, but he did manage to have a lot of unemployment.

Q — WHO IS AFFECTED by this wage-and-price freeze?

A — Everyone but banks and insurance companies.

Q — Why are they not affected?

A — Because they are hardship cases.

Q — What about schoolteachers, policemen, firemen and government employees?

A — They are not exempted because they can weather a wage-price freeze much easier than banks and insurance companies.

Q — DID PRESIDENT Nixon devalue the dollar?

A — Absolutely not. He asked Germany, France and Japan to devalue it for him. The dollar is floating.

Q — Where is it floating?

A — Probably at sea. Two things can happen now. The dollar can be rescued or it can sink.

Q — Who will decide what happens to the dollar?

A — The gnomes in Switzerland.

Q — Who are the gnomes in Switzerland?

A — They're tiny little men, three feet tall, who buy and sell dollars all over the world.

A — Can President Nixon do anything about the gnomes in Switzerland?

A — He can. Just before the elections, he will announce that if he is re-elected he will go to Zurich.

Q — COULD PRESIDENT Nixon have done anything to avoid a wage-price freeze?

A — Yes. He could have sold Alaska. As a matter of fact there is a rumor he might still do it. That's why he asked Emperor Hirohito to meet him there, so Japan could make him an offer.

Q — How will the wage-price freeze affect poor people?

A — They have nothing to fear from it. It's been set up in such a way that their poverty will be protected.

Q — Why did the stock market go up so high when the President clamped the freeze on ?

A — Many top-flight Wall Street investors and brokers were called back from their vacations. They figured as long as they were there and didn't have to go home to dinner, they might as well buy stocks. As soon as their wives come home they'll probably sell.

Q — IF MY BOSS promised me a raise and he can't give it to me because of the wage freeze, what does that make him?

A — The happiest man in the world.

Q — How could this have happened to the dollar when it says right on it "In God We Trust"?

A — God didn't do this to us. It was the Germans, the French and the Japanese.

Q — But why should God allow this to happen if he knows we put all our trust in him?

A — The President has asked Billy Graham to head up a blue-ribbon panel to find an answer to this question.

Q — When will we know?

A — Next Sunday.

Lockout May Be Reinstated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Associated General Contractors said Monday it would reinstate a workers lockout Tuesday unless an agreement was reached with striking Teamster Union members.

However, both sides remained in agreement to continue negotiations toward a settlement.

A spokesman for the AGC said unless the agreement was reached the lockout, which was suspended after President Nixon's wage-price freeze, would go back into effect.

He said the lockout was lifted after the association received a letter from Washington asking an end to the action. He said a similar request was asked of the Teamsters.

Some 5,800 Teamsters in 46 northern California counties in the strike and another 50,000 craftsmen were honoring picket lines.

Innocent Plea In Theft Case

Barbara Ann Fischer, 31, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of grand theft and embezzlement.

A jury trial was set for the week of Oct. 26.

She was arrested July 12 and accused of taking funds while employed with the state department of parks and recreation.

Agnew To Iran

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon will send vice President Spiro T. Agnew to represent the United States at ceremonies in Iran next October marking the 2,500 anniversary of the founding of the Persian Empire.

Marin Women

Tuesday, August 31, 1971 Independent-Journal, 13

MODELS IN New York surveyed by a legwear manufacturer all said that comfort and individuality are the keys to women's fashion this fall. Finding the layered approach to dressing a way to vary the wardrobe inexpensively are two of the models. Marti Scholl (left) wears plum pantyhose, plum knee socks, rust colored knit hot pants with a hand knit multi colored pullover sweater and matching cap. Renee Hunter (right) starts with a red onion color bodysuit, adding pantyhose of the same color, a white bolero with black trim and carries an A-line skirt.

Ask The Models For Clothing Comments

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ask the girls who show the clothes and wear them if you want an accurate measurement of fall and winter fashion trends.

The models' consensus; continuation of the individual look, on-into-winter popularity for the hot pants and now hot skirts added in, comfort and not constriction, refreshing revival of such classics as the blazer, final burial for the midi, and no dictates on what makes for chic.

"The most important thing for fall goes back to that tired old phrase, 'do your own thing,' " said Marti Scholl, a Lancaster, Ohio, native who's been a model in New York for some 10 years.

MISS SCHOOL was one of eight models from the Mannequin Agency who participated in a style consultant panel run by a legwear manufacturer.

The eight agreed: There no longer is pressure for a woman to wear one look. As for the midi, it "bombed" because women found it aging, confining, and that its timing was poor, manufacturers and designers pushing it when the economy was depressed and women just weren't spending as much on clothes.

Gloria Kirby, originally from Detroit, said that as both model and sportswear manufacturer, "I buy lots of clothes. Yet I bought only two midis, one for day and one for evening."

The models figured the women who didn't shorten their midis last year would this fall. As for the longer, to the ankles maxicoat the modles like it to wear over short skirts or hot pants in cold weather. But it too is in trouble, said Renee Hunter, from Brooklyn, because "the little ladies bought it and they were sweeping up the streets."

The manufacturer tape records the sessions for playbacks later to help its stylists and others develop products in line with general trends. The firm plans to hold such "raps" every three months henceforth.

A 'TOTAL STATEMENT'

Mill Valley Photographer Specializes In Repetition

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Photography is the current profession of Andree Ferris. Before she entered the field she had an exciting career that took her to remote parts of the world.

She believes photography is a good field for women, although there are few women photographers.

"I believe that may be because it has a lot of technical aspects and a rather complex setup that do not appeal to women," she says, "but it's not all that difficult. It's an artificial stumbling block. The reason there are not more outstanding women photographers is probably the same reason there are not many top women artists.

"In order to do something like the fine arts or photography it means dedication and sacrifice of social life, home life or something. Many women aren't willing to make the sacrifice of placing their art above everything."

MISS FERRIS, to clarify her approach to photography, says, "I am a professional but not a commercial photographer. For me it is an art approach, and it means self expression. I have sold some things, but this is not my purpose.

"I work primarily in black and white or with color toners or hand coloring that may consist of just one spot of color in the whole photograph."

"I have never seen anyone use this particular technique of making a sequence of photos into one final blend," she says. "I like this method because you come up with another basic design form, and something marvelous happens in the repetition."

THE PHOTOGRAPHER is having a one-man exhibit titled "Repeat Images" beginning tomorrow at the Tintype Photography Center in Tiburon, which, she says, is "the first professional gallery for photography only in Marin."

Referring to this show, she says, "The photos in this exhibit are the result of the final self-imposed limitation that only one basic photo would be used and repeated in various forms. This may involve duplication of the same image, expanded or contracted, the combining of reverse prints (mirror image), or action sequences within the same context.

"So rather than creating multiple images in the camera or by darkroom manipulation, separate prints of the same subject matter are mounted as one print to create a total statement."

Andree Ferris has had work shown previously with the San Francisco Women Artists and in a show titled "Photographs of Peru" held in 1968 at the Focus Gallery in San Francisco.

THESE PHOTOGRAPHS of Peru were taken when Miss Ferris was engaged in an entirely different career.

After graduating from Scripps College at Claremont as a fine arts major, she continued with studies in ceramics and crafts at the Art Students' League in New York and for 15 years was employed there in commercial design of home furnishings and decorative items.

Then a friend, knowing her background in handcrafts and knowledge of the New York design market, asked her if she would like to go to China on a special project.

"This friend was Russell Wright, who is famous for his pottery," she says. "He was handling a development program sponsored by the United States and local governments that was handcrafts oriented. The purpose was to develop an international market for products and designs in the local Chinese tradition."

ANDREE ACCEPTED the offer and did surveys in Japan, Saigon, Hong Kong and the Philippines to see what was being shipped out for the international market before settling in Taiwan for a year in 1958.

After making a round-the-world tour on her way back to New York at the end of this year, she returned to commercial design until a similar program opened in South America.

"It was sponsored by local governments and the American government indirectly through the Agency for International Development to help the people of South America develop their handcrafts for export overseas," she says.

"Out of our surveys the program was established in Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia. I was in Peru on a two-year assignment that extended to two and a half years."

During this time Andree had many exciting experiences, such as living through a bad earthquake in Peru and traveling by every conceivable means over 18,000 foot passes in the Andes to villages where the Indians had never seen a white person. They spoke only an unwritten language called Quechua.

IT WAS at this time that Andree took her pictures of Peru.

When this assignment was completed, Andree's brother, Melton Ferris, an executive director of the California Council of Architects who lives in Bolinas, persuaded her to come to Mill Valley in 1967.

Having decided to take a year out to study photography, Andree spent a year studying with Mill Valley photographer Pirkle Jones and Ansel Adams in Yosemite.

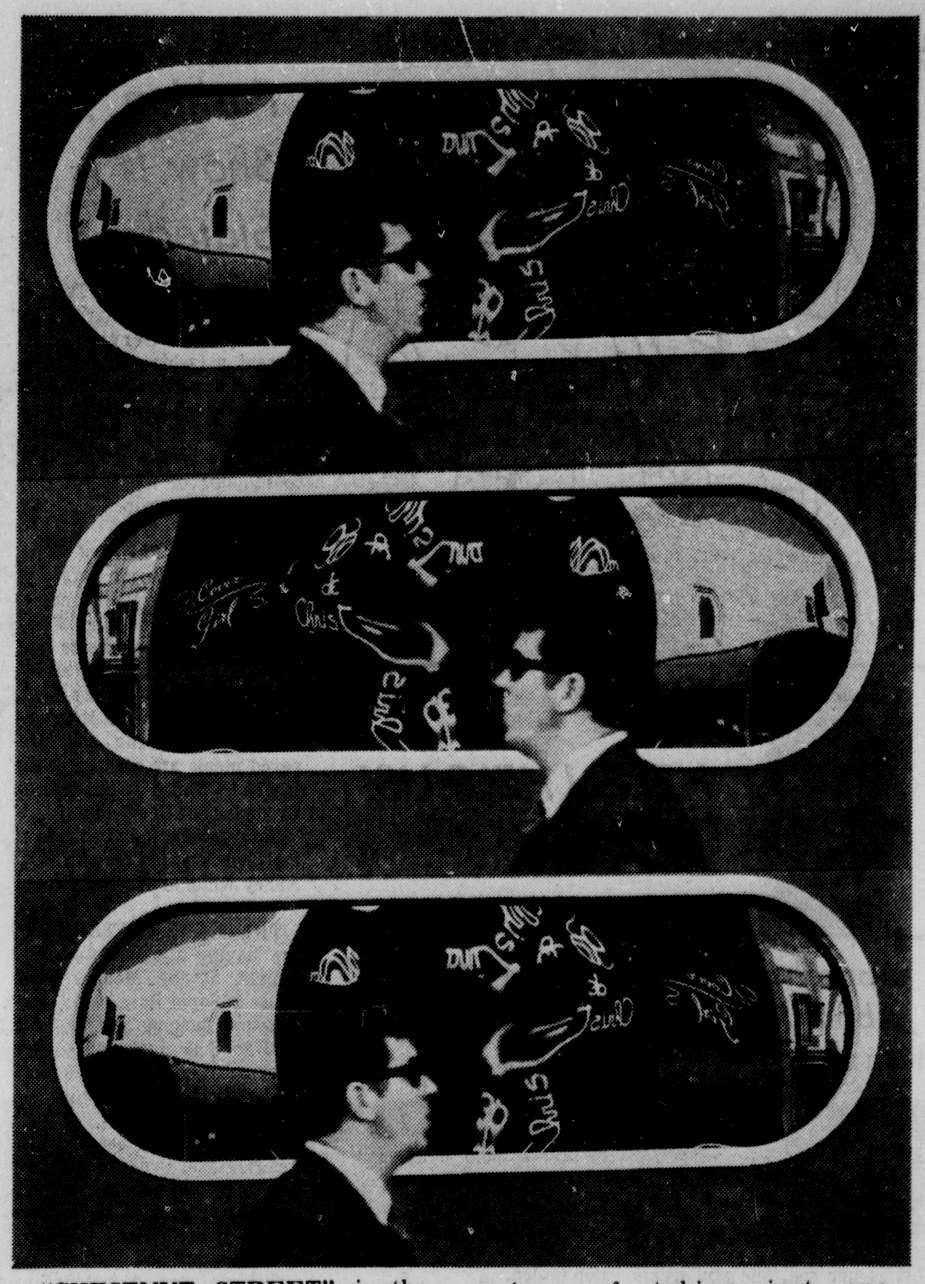

Though she developed professional skill, Andree said she had no desire to do commercial photography as a means of earning a living.

The opportunity to become a partner of Suzanna Broughton in a shop in Mill Valley proved to be what she was looking for as a business enterprise, because the shop handles just the kind of folk art and crafts from all over the world that Andree had been dealing with in the Orient and South America.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Apprehensive Girlfriend Worries About Marrying Mama's Boy

DEAR HELEN:

I'm going with a wonderful man of 30. He treats me great, but sees me only about once a week.

Here's the problem: He lives with his widowed mother. She's attractive, but not interested in marrying again. Her only interest is her son. She still treats him like a little boy — scrubs his back when he's in the tub, washes his hair. I imagine she even tucks him in at night. And she's very possessive.

I sort of raise my eyebrows at their closeness and he says, "So what, she's my mother, isn't she?"

What would marriage with him be like? — APPREHENSIVE

DEAR AP:

A three-for-all, until Mama made it a twosome again. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I knew my husband was messing around with this other woman, but on our 25th wedding anniversary he swore he was going to give her up.

Well, a few days later my prize goldfish disappeared. My grown daughter gave me five angel fish to take its place, as I love my aquarium. But three of them were missing a day later. My husband said they died and he flushed them, but I know for a fact tht this woman of his also has an aquarium — and a mutual friend siid she got some new fish recently. The description tallied.

It's said that watching fish calms your nerves. Do you suppose she and that lying man need tranquilizers because they feel so guilty? Or maybe he's getting even because I found some lipstick on his shirt.

It's bad enough that she got my husband, Helen, but must she have my wonderful fish too? — MAD FISH LOVER

DEAR MAD:

Given a choice, which would you prefer returned first? And, if it's necessary to think about the answer — maybe this explains why your husband is fish-watching elsewhere. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I agree with you, Helen: If a woman is smart, she can have the best of two worlds, and who's going to knock that? I'm for Personhood (as that editor advocated) but I feel that each individual has the right to decide just what personhood means to him or her. Many "Liberators" expect ALL women to take their definition and, if we did, wouldn't we be "automatons, a stereotyped group, all put together in a bag" — just what she abhors?

I love my two worlds. In January, I will graduate, a certified elementary school teacher. Yes, an age-old profession for women, but one I chose! I am an equal in the eyes of all men except a small minority — who have the right to THEIR beliefs too. Why bother to fight them? They aren't important.

On the one hand, I enjoy equality, an education, a career, sexual freedom, equal pay for equal work, and many other things. On the other hand, I am a woman and have special privileges because of it. I receive courtesies and protection from men, even more from those who consider me equal. I enjoy greater freedom in dressing, get special consideration because (happily) I am feminine and not as strong as men.

Next summer I will be married, not because it is expected of me, but because I have found the man I want to spend my life with. He may pamper me a bit, but stifle me? — Never! I'll pamper him too, for I enjoy homemaking and look forward to raising a family as much as I look forward to my career.

This is my Personhood formula. I don't expect to convert others, but for me, it is perfect. — BEST OF BOTH WORLDS AND LOVING IT

THE SOFA THAT opens for sleeping is finding its way into more and more homes, and the popular demand has helped create better design. The sleep sofa shown is love seat size is also available in four other lengths.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Sleeping Sofas Show Great Gains In Comfort, Styling

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Have you taken the sleep sofa bounce-test lately? It's amazing how much sleep sofas have improved in comfort in the past few years.

Better engineering is one of the reasons for the new seating ease in convertibles. Remember, there used to be a metal bar smack through the center of the seat area? You'd flop down and "ouch!," you'd never flop down again.

Now the metal frames so necessary to the foldaway concept have been redirected. The major parts run around the perimeter of the seating area so there's no inhibitor to a good bouncy lounging.

THE SLEEP sofa has gained much in styling, too. The one shown today by Craft Associates is a case in point. It keeps its sleeptime secrets very well since it's wrapped in a wet-look vinyl and trimmed with chrome-plated steel. But inside is a bed complete with innerspring mattress ready to function at a flip of the wrist.

The love seat size is popular now for sleep sofas. A den with a duo of love seats can be a great extra sleep room when the family expands.

We've seen some good-looking models made of wicker. And some of the fresh new geometric prints and youth-oriented design concepts are proliferating in sleep-seating pieces.

The sofa you use day and night mi ght need a bit of heavy-duty fabric if it's to survive in good condition. So watch for some of the dirt-resistant fabrics and for sofas with dirt-resistant finishes. One new fabric also has a stain release built into it — and the words stain release mean just what they say. When a stain becomes embedded in the man-made fiber fabrics, it is hard to get out. So the stain release is a kind of prod — it makes the fiber let go, and a cleaning agent can do its job.

So between the comfort improvement factor and the good looks factor, one wonders why all sofas are not designed to convert for overnight sleeping. Just don't sit there, you sofa manufacturers, start thinking.

New Bumpers On '72 Chevrolets

DETROIT (UPI)—Chevrolet division of General Motors Corp. today introduced its 1972 line of cars, featuring minor refinements and styling changes with a front bumper heavier, stronger and sticking out about 1 1-2 inches from the car.

Like the new Pontiacs introduced Monday, the Chevrolet bumper was an interim item designed to reduce damage in a five mile an hour impact with another car. The Chevrolet bumper, however, is unlike the Pontiac bumper in that it is fixed rigidly to the frame while the Pontiac bumper had urethane plastic buffers to absorb energy.

Bumpers that will survive a 10 mile an hour car-to-car collision will be required on 1973 cars. They will differ from the interim bumpers in that they will extend about three inches from the car's sheet metal and, in the heavier cars, will have hydraulic rather than plastic or rubber cushioning.

The new Chevrolet bumper will be on only the full-sized Chevrolet models.

In line with all other General Motors Divisions, there were few styling changes in the Chevrolet cars. Changes were confined mostly to front grilles and rear decks, interior refinements plus improved exhaust emissions controls for all Chevrolet engines.

There was one new "flash-back" innovation.

Among 15 colors offered for 1972, Chevrolet offered six two-color combinations. Two-tone cars were popular in the 50s and faded in the 60s. Chevrolet is bringing them back in the 70s.

Other improvements claimed by Chevrolet included added body insulation to reduce interior sound level and power disc brakes with variable ratio steering standards on all regular Chevrolets.

Chevrolet also announced that a three-speed automatic transmission would be available during the model year for the Chevrolet Vega. Heretofore, only a two-speed automatic transmission was available.

On the sporty-Camaro model, which may not last beyond 1973, about the only change was a four-spoke steering wheel made standard. The import-fighter Vega was unchanged except that a glove compartment and perforated headboard lining were added plus carpeting on the sedan, disc brakes rotors were redesigned and new pad material giving quieter braking.

Alioto Submits Appeal, Seeking Delay In Trial

SEATTLE (UPI) —A motion has been submitted to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas asking for a delay in the Alioto-O'Connell-Faler fee-splitting civil suit.

The motion by San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto asked for a stay for the trial pending an appeal in the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Trial of the case involving Alioto, former Washington state Attorney General John J. O'Connell and George K. Faler, a former aide to O'Connell, is scheduled to begin with jury selection in Vancouver, Wash. Sept. 20.

Preliminary matters, including motions related to the admissibility of evidence, are continuing in Seattle before King County Superior Court Judge Donald L. Gaines.

Gaines ruled Monday that attorneys in the case will be able to ask prospective jurors about their political views because several principals in the case are well known political figures.

The state and several public utility districts and municipalities are seeking to recover $2.3 million in legal fees paid to Alioto for legal work in settling antitrust cases before he became mayor.

Alioto gave some of the fee to O'Connell and Faler. The suit contends the fee-splitting was concealed and illegal. Alioto maintains the arrangement was proper.

Alioto, O'Connell and Faler also have been charged in U.S. District court with conspiracy to bribe state officials and mail fraud. The trial is scheduled to begin in Seattle Jan. 3.

Alioto, who is running for reelection, contends that starting the civil trial before the criminal proceedings will prejudice his right to a fair trial in the criminal case.

'Giant Swing' Cable Snaps, Injuring Two

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Two boys hurtled into a house trailer Monday when a cable on a carnival ride at Cal Expo called the "giant swing" snapped while they were seven feet off the ground.

Darrell Black, 14, was treated for cuts and bruises at the Sacramento Medical Center and released. His 6-year-old brother, Robert, was also treated for cuts and whiplash before being released.

Darrell said his brother was sitting on his lap when "about the sixth time around, I heard a snap."

"Then it felt like we were going over a hill and your belly is falling out. I didn't know that we crashed until they started getting us out," he said.

Norton Alevy, co-owner of the Atlas Greater Shows, said the ride, which spins riders around in a chair at the end of a chain, had been checked for safety earlier in the day.

"This accident could happen to any piece of mechanical equipment," Alevy said.

Lightening Bolt Demounts Pair

TURLOCK, Calif. (UPI)—A bolt of lightning killed three horses but left a couple riding two of them unscatched in a Sierra rainstorm, it was reported Monday.

The couple, Paul and June Moore, were with a party of nine persons on a packing trip near Yosemite National Park Thursday. A lightning bolt killed the two horses they were riding and a pack horse.

"We were just riding along in a rainstorm when the horses just dropped to the ground" said Moore. He said he and his wife were trapped but managed to free themselves and ride two other pack horses to safety.

Clarification On Veteran Story

Saturday's Independent-Journal reported that Marin County ex-servicemen who lost their veterans' rights because they were discharged for use or possession of drugs now have a second chance to gain medical and other veterans' benefits under a new Pentagon policy.

James V. Burdick, Marin County veterans' service officer, said yesterday, that the new policy does not apply to veterans who were discharged because they were suspected of selling drugs or supplying them to other persons.

Typhoon Rains Flood Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) —Torrential rains caused by a weakening but still active Typhoon Trix flooded parts of Tokyo today and halted Japan's fast "bullet" trains.

The season's 23rd typhoon brought death, injuries and damage to outhern and western Japan. Heavy rains whipped by strong winds hit Tokyo, the world's most populous city with 11.3 million residents, and flooded the western part of the city with up to four inches of water.

The national police agency said 30 persons had died since Trix first battered Kyushu, Japan's southernmost main island, late Sunday night. Eight others were reported missing and 76 injured.

Novato Needs One Fireman

The Novato Fire Department is accepting applications for the job of fireman with one vacancy on the roster, Chief Jack Kidder reported today.

Interested persons can pick up applications at headquarters, 1000 Grant Avenue, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., and must file them by 5 p.m. Tuesday, Chief Kidder said.

"We will have an examination within the next 10 days," he said.

Applicants must be between 21 and 35 years of age, and to make the eligibility list must pass written, oral and agility tests and a physical examination. The starting pay is $690 a month.

Tryouts For 'Bash' Announced

The Novato Community Players will have tryouts next week for its annual fall fling, to be entitled "Boozer's Bash," based on a tour of the world's bars.

Tryouts will be held at 8 p.m. Sept. 9 and 1 p.m. Sept. 12 at the Novato Community House, reports John Prohaska, director.

Needed are people for comedy skits and song and dance numbers and an accordion player. Speciality acts may tryout and if possible will be fitted in to the script, Prohaska said.

Rehearsals will start Sept. 17 with the show scheduled Nov. 12, 13, 19 and 20.

The show was written by Prohaska and Lei Mann, who will be assistant director and choreographer. Chris Killgaard will be the producer.

Scripts are available from Prohaska, 39 Devonshire Drive, or Mrs. Kollgaard, 8 Renata Court, Novato.

Hiring On Agenda

Employment of a primary teacher will be considered by the Bolinas-Stinson School District Board at a special meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Bolinas School. Trustees will also consider payment of architect's fees for designs for a proposed classroom building at the school.

ROOKIE PRINCIPAL — Now two months into his new job as head of San Rafael High School, Peter G. Palches, speculates about his dreams — immediate and future — for the 2,000 student institution. This is Palches first administrative position and he faces it with caution, a sense of responsibility and gratitude to the San Rafael School District for "taking a chance" with him.

SAN RAFAEL HIGH

New Principal Charts Goals

By MARY BURNS

Peter G. Palches' administrative "bag" is adding reality and relevance to high school education.

Palches, as of July 1, became principal of San Rafael High School, population 2,000.

The 38-year-old Harvard and Stanford graduate stumbled into the profession which he has found to be his vocational niche. He was born in Brockton, Mass. and raised in Plymouth. He was a cum laude graduate of Harvard earning a degree in English and valuable experience as sports editor on the college's newspaper, "Crimson."

He became newspaper editor for his anti-aircraft installation in the Army in 1955 and entered Harvard's School of Education after his discharge. "But I wasn't really ready for it at that time, so I left after a few months," Palches said.

Palches migrated to Southern California, worked in a bank for a time, then headed for Alaska with a friend "to make our fortune on the frontier."

"One mile on the Alaska-Canadian highway my car broke down. While it was being repaired I met all the refugees from Alaska coming back down and telling us not to go. So my friend and I went to the local school district and asked for a job."

The local school district — of South Taylor, British Columbia — was critically short of teachers so Palches was immediately made principal of a two-room school with 400 pupils. His friend — who did not have a bachelor's degree yet — could only teach.

"While I was there I discovered I really liked education, so I decided to go to Stanford and get my certificate."

Certificate earned, he began a four year stint at Sunnyvale teaching English and journalism and then transferred to Gunn High School in Palo Alto.

"The principal at Gunn showed me that the man in his position could develop a climate of respect for persons as individuals, and I decided to become an administrator."

Once again Palches entered Stanford and earned a doctorate in education. In 1969 he became director of planning for a new high school that is to be built in San Mateo.

San Rafael is Palches first principalship. "This board really took a chance with me," he said.

He said that probably his greatest mistake as a rookie administrator would be making too many promises. But he has definite ideas about what he would like to see come to pass at San Rafael in the next decade and what he plans to initiate.

"I would like to see greater communication between teachers," Palches said. He explained that schools are departmentalized and pupils taught as if their minds were also departmentalized.

A possible solution he said would be inter-disciplinary studies where groups of teachers with different specialites join to create methods of "making abstracts make sense."

"Irrelevancy (for a student) means being unable to relate an abstract idea with something he can touch." Yet, Palches said, much of teaching techniques seem to be organized for this kind of irrelevancy.

"I think we have a definite human relations problem at San Rafael," Palches said. "I think our black students feel unaccepted. There were only 30 to 40 black students here last year in a campus of 2,000 and I think there existed an exaggerated sense of solidarity among them. It was almost like these students felt they had to have their own turf. This made it tough, many times, for white students to make friends. I think the black students felt conspicuous because they were so few."

Palches said parents and teachers of San Rafael met and discussed the multi-ethnic status of the school. They agreed to work jointly to insure that every student feel accepted at the school and build a positive approach to the multi-cultural aspect of the school.

"White students are culturally deprived because they don't have the benefits of the black culture and black students are culturally deprived because they don't have the benefits of the white culture," Palches said.

The young principal would eventually like to witness the end of the large school, like San Rafael, and the beginning of the school-within-a-school, dividing 2,000 into smaller groups of 300 to 600.

"I would also like to see more traffic of kids outside into learning activities off campus. It's absurd to isolate kids and try to teach them about life. I want to see the end of this 'teenage ghetto'."

"High school students should be more involved with smaller children — babies, pre-schoolers — older people so that they sense that everyone is not sexy, young and a teenager."

"Basically, everyone has to deal with his 70-years life span. Yet we submerge these students with other teens. They must understand that their lives must be planned out."

Palches said the most dramatic change he has seen in schools since he became a teacher 10 years ago is the "now orientation."

"Schools went through a period of excessive criticism. And I think we deserved it. Now I think our curriculum is more relevant and I think teachers are more concerned about the here and now."

The changes in schools reflect the changes in society, Palches said. "People are saying 'come on to me as a person.' I don't think we've been terribly responsive in major ways. By no means do I think we've changed enough or in intelligent ways. I'm not terribly optimistic that the existing school structure can change. But I'm going to give it a go."

"I also think that during society's crisis period we came up with a naive definition of freedom that carried over into schools.

"We said the old ways were too severe and stodgy. We somehow got the idea that learning was an ecstatic almost erotic experience all the time. This is not the case. Much of what we do as teachers has to be hard work and planning."

One of Palches plans for the summer was to talk with every teacher on his faculty preceding the September opening of school. He has talked with about two-thirds and said he has been extremely impressed with "the aliveness, maturity and personal dedication of these people." As for their reaction to their young administrator, he said, "I think they're positively disposed to me but they're waiting — as they should — to see what I will do."

While Palches insists that San Rafael has rules by which students must abide he wants high school to be an enjoyable experience for his students.

"I want these students to feel that this is their school. The building is not designed for easy maintenance but so kids can feel they belong here."

"I really feel a kid should be able to carve his initials in a school and say 'I was here!' "

Palches said he understands that the realization of his dreams for San Rafael High will have to be preceded by hard work. "But the question is whether one sees enough hope to want to make something happen. It's going to take some pragmatic decisions and concerted intelligence over a long period of time."

Car Swerves In Sonoma, 3-Month-Old Boy Dies

A 3-month-old member of a Santa Rosa family was killed and three other family members were injured, one critically, yesterday when their car swerved off Bodega Avenue west of the Petaluma city limits and overturned.

All four persons in the small, foreign-made auto, which had veered to avoid a turning motorcycle, were ejected.

Dead at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital was Brandon Loshbaugh, son of Lawrence R. and Pam Loshbaugh, both of whom also were injured. Also hurt was another son, Robert, 2.

The surviving son was reported in critical condition today in Santa Rosa Memorial, while the 21-year-old mother was said to be "poor-fair" at the same hospital. Their injuries were not disclosed.

Brandon died three hours after the 3:05 p.m. crash, which occurred near Paula Lane. The California Highway Patrol said Loshbaugh, eastbound on Bodega, swerved to avoid a westbound motorcycle driven by Michel M. Castelli, 25, of 3615 Middle Two Rock Road, Petaluma.

Officers said Castelli was turning onto Paula Lane when the accident happened. Both drivers were issued summonses — Loshbaugh for speeding and Castelli for failure to yield.

Funeral arrangements for the child are pending.

Ruling Reinstates Pay Boosts For Teachers, County Workers

Because of a new federal directive on salary contracts, most teachers and some county employees will receive pay hikes formerly interpreted by the county auditor as blocked under the presidential wage-price freeze.

Marin Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell had said on Aug. 18 that teachers would receive the same salary they were paid last spring until expiration of the president's wage-price freeze, unless the Office of Emergency Preparedness directs otherwise.

The new ruling means 75 per cent of Marin teachers and 45 county employees will get pay hikes, Mitchell, said today.

He said the increases will be a "significant dollar amount" but he had no firm figures computed.

The directive released yesterday from the Office of Emergency Preparedness says that if a district contract was approved before Aug. 15, then the employees under the contract are eligible for a pay raise.

In the case of the teacher whose contract had been approved before Aug. 15, but was not scheduled to receive a paycheck under the contract until September, the salary hike is still valid because the effective date of the contract is now the determining factor, not the date the teacher was to be paid.

Mitchell said supplemental checks will be given to teachers who had such pay increases deducted in August paychecks.

Most of the teachers who will be getting a boost in their salaries are in the Marin Community College, Sausalito and Larkspur school districts, according to Mitchell.

Mitchell said 45 county employees scheduled for merit system increases dated Aug. 1 will be getting those increases.

He added the 45 employees will receive their increases in today's paycheck.

However, Mitchell noted, merit system increases scheduled for 120 county employees in September, October and November are still frozen.

Naturalist To Lead Walks In Point Reyes

Bay area naturalist, Margot Patterson Doss, will lead a series of Point Reyes Peninsula walks as part of the University of California Extension's fall adult education program, the school officials have announced.

Mrs. Doss will conduct two series of Thursday morning walks: one, each Thursday from Sept. 30 to Oct. 21 and the second from Oct. 28 to Nov. 18.

Other extension courses offered in Marin include studies of Bolinas Lagoon and the San Andreas Fault system, classes in meditation, photography and perception and professional courses for teachers.

40 Injured In Train Collision

BELGRADE (UPI) — More than 40 persons were injured Tuesday when a local passenger train struck the Orient Express near the Yugoslav-Italian border.

Tanjug, the Yugoslav news agency, said three passengers suffered serious injuries "but they are not in danger."

It was the fourth major railway accident in Yugoslavia this year. The three previous ones killed a total of 82 persons.

Colorado Town Is Not 'Dead'

LAKESIDE, Colo. (UPI)— The city of Lakeside says reports of its demise have been greatly exaggerated. It still is a thriving if not growing community.

The U.S. census bureau Monday naked Lakeside as one of eight incorporated towns in the United States that vanished during the 1960s. Another Colorado community, Ironton, also was ranked among the non-existent towns.

No one lives in Ironton, but Lakeside —which includes the Lakeside shopping center and amusement park —still exists. It has a population of 17.

Walter Freeman, director of the Denver office of the U.S. census Bureau, said a computer made the error. He said the census bureau in Washington has been notified of the slipup.

Papers Collection

Bundled newspapers will be collected from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at San Anselms School at 46 Mariposa Avenue, San Anselmo. The collection bin is now located at the school and bundled newspapers may be left there earlier.

Rash Of Dog Poisonings In Petaluma

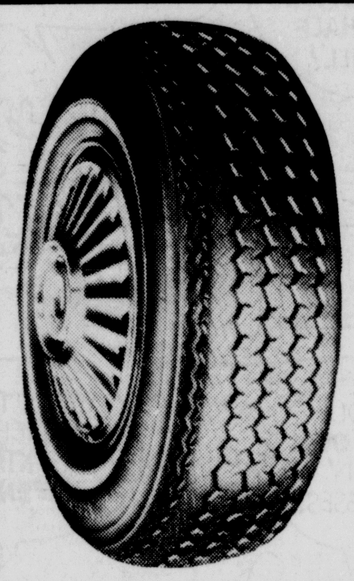

A rash of dog poisonings has been reported in the Petaluma area, leading to the deaths of at least two animals, according to police.

The dead animals apparently succumbed to strychnine placed in outdoor food dishes.

Howard Myers, spokesman for the Animal Control Center in Petaluma, said he was aware of at least four and possibly six poisonings in widely placed areas of the city since Friday, although several owners apparently managed to get aid for their pets in time.

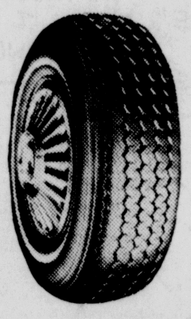

The dead dogs were German shepherds, one belonging to a man identified only as Joselle and living at 112 East Court Street. The owner of the other dead animal, poisoned yesterday, was identified as Gordon Cort of 614 Galland Street.

In addition, Paul Wares of 616 West Street told police his dog was poisoned late Sunday. It was taken to the Animal Control center, although the condition of the animal could not be ascertained today.

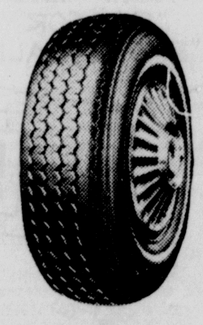

CAIN'S TIRE AND RADIAL PLY —TIRES—

The best radial ply tire is the steel belted MICHELIN X TIRE GUARANTEED to wear for 40,000 miles. The problem with Michelin is we can't get enough of them. In certain sizes they are almost impossible to get, so we have now taken on what we consider the next best radial tire on the market - the only radial that carries a legitimate 40,000 mile guarantee, that isn't made by Michelin. THE TIRE — THE B.F. GOODRICH RADIAL.

THE MICHELIN X RADIAL TIRE - THE B.F. GOODRICH RADIAL TIRE BOTH GUARANTEED TO WEAR FOR 40,000 MILES WITH NO NONSENSE

What I mean by no nonsense - is that if your tire wears out before the 40,000 miles it's guaranteed, (and well it might) then you will receive a new one paying exactly for the mileage you received. Example, should you only get 27,000 miles - that is 67.5% of 40,000 miles, you will receive a new tire and be charged 67.5% of the current sale price. No gimmicks, you are fully covered. The mickey mouse mileage guarantees, only return you a small dollar discount regardless of how quickly the tire wears out. Enough of that.

Today is Tuesday, Aug. 31, the 243rd day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Virgo.

On this day in history:

In 1954 Hurrican Carol lashed the New England Coast, killing 68 persons and causing damage estimated at $500 million.

In 1968 at least 250 deaths were reported in an Iranian earthquake.

In 1969 the military took over the government of Brazil after that nation's president suffered a stroke.

A thought for today: American author William Saroyan said, "If you give to a thief he cannot steal from you, and he is then no longer a thief."

Cholera Kills 52 Pakistanis

DACCA (UPI)—Fifty-two persons have died from cholera in the flooded Pabna district in northern East Pakistan, officials said Monday. Other cases of the disease are reported in the nearby districts of Kushtia and Munshiganj.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Actually Some Villains Don't Wear Those Big Black Hats

Today we continue the principle stated in yesterday's column: In many bridge hands one opponent is a jolly good fellow, and the other opponent is a villain. You can afford to give up a trick to the jgf, but beware of letting the villain gain in the lead. How do you tell which is which? One method is shown in today's hand.

Opening lead — ♠ 3

NOW YOU KNOW

West opens the three of spades, and at this stage you don't know which opponent is the villain. You play the queen of spades from the dummy, and East follows suit with a low spade. And now you know.

West must have the ace of spades, since East would surely capture dummy's queen if he could. Therefore West is in position to capture your king of spades if East leads a spade through you. This makes East the dangerous opponent.

West is not dangerous because if West leads spades your king will win a trick. Therefore you must develop your tricks in such a way as to give the lead, if need be, to West — but not, on any account, to East.

CHOICE OF SUIT

You would dearly love to develop the diamonds since you might get five tricks in that suit with a bit of luck. Still, a diamond finesse risks giving the lead to the villain.

Instead, you go after the clubs. You lead the ten of clubs from dummy for a finesse at the second trick. If the finesse loses, the man in the white hat (West) will win the trick.

IN WEST'S HAND

Sure enough, West does turn up with the king of clubs. No matter what West returns, you can win the trick and run off nine tricks; one spade, three hearts, just two diamonds, and three clubs.

It's worthwhile comparing this hand with yesterday's. The same contract and the same opening lead, but it turns out that a different opponent is the villain.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - Q 6
♥ - A 8 5
♦ - A K J 6 3
♣ - 10 9 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. You have the general strength for a jump raise, but you need a fourth heart for this purpose. Bid your own suit and show the heart support later.

African Share Of Coffee Supply Up

COLOGNE, Germany (UPI) —Africa's share of West Germany's coffee supply is increasing while Latin America's is off, according to the International Exhibition of Fine Foods and Provisions.

German imports of raw coffee in 1970 totaled 308,335 tons. The bulk, 230,589 tons, came from Central and South America. But that area's share of the total declined from 78.7 per cent to 74.8 per cent, while imports from Africa rose to 72,763 tons, or 23.6 per cent of the total compared with 20 per cent in 1969.

New Cars (Domestic)2905

Do You Want A BETTER Deal On The SAME New Car?

All new car dealers have the same models, styles, colors and optional equipment on their new cars. What is the difference between dealers on the same make of car?

THE ANSWER IS IN THE COST OF DOING BUSINESS IN ONE AREA AS AGAINST ANOTHER

Marin County new car dealers have a much lower cost of doing business than the dealers "over the bridge." This is why your new car will cost less in Marin County. WHY DON'T YOU CHECK AND SEE!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Many Blind Victims Experience Profound Emotional Reactions

Sudden or gradual loss of vision produces profound emotional reactions. Many victims become hopelessly depressed or fearful that they will be unable to care for themselves. Some develop suicidal tendencies. It is at this time that the individuals need compassion and understanding. On recuperating from the shock, they should be encouraged to balance their disability with a new ability. Their interests, strengths and skills should be directed into fields where minimized sight is not a handicap.

AUTHORITIES agree that the blind should participate in the activities of the sighted world. This is much superior to withdrawal into a life of fear, caution, hopelessness and complete dependency. Withdrawal will keep him safe from physical harm and ridicule, but this is not living. For some persons, blindness presents a challenge and more so when the disability is permanent and he is willing to accept reality. Blind attorneys and physicians have gained recognition in their fields. They fill the gap by depending heavily upon their senses of hearing, touch and smell.

A blind person must assume a new role in society. He is no longer a normal person and will gain new confidence and mobility by learning to walk with a cane or a trained dog. Rehabilitation is most helpful because it assists in bringing out optimum capacities for employment and family responsibilities. Many special aids also are available to help the blind cope with everyday living and to enjoy recreation.

THERE ARE many causes for blindness and in some instances, vision can be restored. A scar or defect of the cornea (the transparent curved coat of the eyeball covering the iris and pupil) can be removed and replaced with a transplant. Cataracts also cause blindness but sight usually is restored when they are removed.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

THEY VANISH

E.E. writes: You say that a person has to develop additional blood vessels when he puts on weight. What happens to these supplementary vessels after reducing?

REPLY

They collapse or wither away. Obese individuals have more fat cells than persons of normal weight. When they reduce, the fat cells get smaller, but the number remains the same.

CHANGE OF HEART

REPLY

This is not a manifestation of hysteria. Other possibilities must be considered, such as whether the mate is sympathetic to the emotionally ill person or whether the medicine used in treatment is making the woman mean and excitable.

MUSCLE STRENGTH

REPLY

Muscles are strengthened thru use. A normal diet helps to improve the sense of well-being and to avoid the general weakness associated with lack of food.

SLIM GIRL

R.H. writes: I'm 16 and weigh only 94 pounds. Is there anything I can take to help me put on some pounds?

REPLY

Yes — food. Our leaflet on this subject can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

Today's Health Hint — Adequate lighting is a must when doing close work or reading.

Play Director To Meet Heath

EDINBURGH (UPI) — Jim Dunn, director of the College of Marin's wild west production of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" at the Edinburgh Festival has been invited to meet British Prime Minister Edward Heath next week, festival officials said today.

The officials said Dunn, 38, and his wife (Caroline) were invited to meet Heath Sept. 9 at a reception for festival personalities the Great Hall of Edinburgh Castle.

Dunn and the cast members of the critically-acclaimed production were on a three-day break Monday. The show resumes Wednesday after the British bank holiday weekend.

The cast was invited to attend a reception hosted by Lord Provost Sir James McKay in the Edinburgh city chambers tonight, a group spokesman said.

Fire Destroys Yosemite Bus

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI)—A glass-enclosed shuttle bus, recently put into operation in Yosemite Valley to help keep traffic congestion down, has been destroyed by fire, park officials disclosed today.

The bus was traveling on the River Road Sunday on its way to Camp Curry when the motor began acting up. The driver told the passengers to get out moments before the bus burst into flames.

Park officials said the fire apparently resulted from faulty wiring. There was no damage estimate made, but officials said the fire totally destroyed the bus.

The free shuttle bus was one of three renovated vehicles recently put into operation on the valley floor in an attempt to discourage visitors from using their private automobiles on the crowded roads in the lush valley.

A Drink Turns Muscle Man Into A Real Samson

VENICE, (UPI) —The beach was hot and his throat was parched so David Draper, 29, a former "Mr. Universe," sipped willingly from a jug which several hippies offered him.

One of the ingredients, however, turned out to be an hallucinogenic drug, authorities said, and 45 minutes later the heavily-muscled victim had the strength of ten.

Draper reportedly threatened lifeguards and beachgoers at the Los Angeles-area communith. When a city rescue ambulance appeared he had to be subdued.

The Samson-shaped Draper was taken to the UCLA Medical Center where he was treated in a darkened room. Authorities said his condition was good, but that they feared he might have more fits if brought into the light.

FBI Reports On Crime In Marin

He said it marked the second year in a row that crime statistics showed a tapering off of the sharp upward swing recorded during the mid 1960's.

Statistics gathered by the Federal Bureau Of Investigation showed that Marin County had 1,977 offenses known to police but no comparison was made with the year before.

The crime statistics for Marin were: murder and non-negligent manslaughter, three; manslaughter by negligence, two; forcible rape, 24; robbery, 57; aggravated assault, 26; burglary, 708; theft over $50, 1,136; theft under $50, 1,096, and auto theft, 23.

Figures were also released for Marin's two largest cities, Novato and San Rafael, for which comparisons with 1969 were available. These statistics with the ones for 1969 in parenthesis are:

San Rafael — murder and non-negligent manslaughter, 2 (0); manslaughter by negligence 1 (1); forcible rape, 9 (7); robbery, 30 (23); aggrevated assault, 31 (5); burglary, 605 (438); theft over $50, 1,073 (776); theft under $50, 976 (885), and auto theft, 208 (281).

Novato — Murder and non-negligent manslaughter, 0 (1); manslaughter by negligence, 0 (1); forcible rape, 2 (5); robbery, 3 (9); aggravated assault, 12 (39); burglary, 290 (232); theft over $50, 301 (220); theft under $50, 739 (631), and auto theft, 63 (52).

TV REVIEW

Time To Watch Movies

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The time to catch up on movies you have missed is almost here as the television networks prepare to launch their new seasons with popular motion pictures for maximum ratings impact.

On Sept. 16, for instance, CBS-TV begins the seventh season of its Thursday night movies with Paul Newman in "Harper," about the private eye created by the splendid novelist Ross MacDonald. Also in the film are Lauren Bacall, Julie Harris, Shelley Winters, Janet Leigh, Arthur Hill and Robert Wagner.

On Sept. 18 and 20, meanwhile, NBC-TV will use John Wayne's big-style western "The Alamo" as a two-part presentation that will kick off both the network's Saturday and Monday night motion pictures.

The story, of course, concerns the epic battle of the war for the independence of Texas, and Wayne produced and directed the movie as well as starring in it along with Richard Widmark and Laurence Harvey.

On Sept. 19, CBS-TV, starting its new season of Sunday night movies, will offer "Guess Who's Coming To Dinner," in which Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn portray lifelong liberals who "find their beliefs put to the test when their daughter ... returns from a holiday with a prospective husband in tow," a black research doctor (Sidney Poitier). Cecil Kellaway and Beah Richards are also in the cast.

Movies made specifically for television are, of course, the current rage because of ratings success. Truman Capote, for example, is reported writing an original screenplay for CBS-TV's new series of 90-minute films, which debuts this fall. The story, says the network, "deals with a power struggle among a prison population."

On another level, ABC-TV's "Movie of the Week" series, which has touched off much of the new anthology movement because of its great showing in the popularity statistics, will present a Sept. 21 original called "Congratulations, It's A Boy," about a still young, swinging bachelor who suddenly discovers he is the father of a teen-ager. Bill Bixby, of "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," plays the lead, and others in the production include Jack Albertson, Ann Sothern and Diane Baker.

Not only the long one-shot film, but also the continuing story, has suddenly aroused fresh interest at the television network mills. The multi-part novelization of books is a new trend, and if you wonder why this high class serial form has a basic appeal to video types, just ponder the fact that two soap operas, "Search for Tomorrow" and "Love of Life," will mark their 20th anniversaries on CBS-TV in September.

"Arnold's Closet Revue," a sort of half-hour version of "Laugh-In" but concentrating on the comic characters created by Arte Johnson, was given a one-shot outing on NBC-TV Monday night. Despite several off moments, it had an attractive sense of lunatic abandon and, in any case, was certainly a lot funnier than most shows on television. A weekly Arte Johnson series wouldn't be hard to take at all.

Over at ABC-TV Monday night, the Howard Cosell-Don Meredith comedy show, occasionally interrupted by the Kansas City Chiefs-New York Jets football game, turned up with its foretaste of the new season. At one point, for instance, Meredith noted that he had played some defense in his school days, and Cosell suggested that some people felt he had played it as a professional quarterback as well.

Shamu The Whale Dies

The 4,700-pound mammal, star of the "Shamu Goes Hollywood" show at the Sea World Aquatic Park, died Sunday from an infection. She gained national attention last April when she gripped the legs of a bikini-clad Sea World employe, Annette Eckis, after the secretary fell from the whale's back while taking a ride.

The show will go on, though. Sea World said an "understudy" will continue the daily shows and that another whale was being brought in from Sea World's Ohio Park.

KTIM Affiliates In National Net

At 7 a.m. tomorrow, KTIM will broadcast for the first time as an affiliation, approved one month ago, culminates several years of attempts to join the 600-station national network, KTIM general manager and president, Hugh E. Turner said yesterday.

"Mutual will put us in the same ball park with CBS (Columbia broadcasting System) and NBC (National Broadcasting Company)" turner said. KTIM will now carry national news broadcasts, live coverage of presidential addresses and special sports features as do affiliates of the other two major networks.

A highlight of the new program schedule will be "The World Today," summary, each evening, of the day's national and international news.

According to Turner, KTIM was allowed to affiliate with Mutual because Marin County's reception of the system's San Francisco affiliate has been poor.

Programs will now be transmitted through telephone lines from New York and the network's other bureaus. In anticipation of the additional news load, KTIM has modernized its news rooms and now has two control rooms, Turner said.

No local program will be dropped, though some will have to be rescheduled Turner said. "We will not lose our local image."

No 'Freeze' On Alimony Payments

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The latest government rulings on details of the wage-price-rent freeze carried bad news for alimony-paying husbands, coal sellers and some importers.

The Cost of Living Council, which settles questions and disputes arising during the 90-day freeze period, has ruled that alimony and child support payments are not frozen and may be increased during the standstill. It said such expenses are considered transfer payments—not prices—and as such are not frozen.

It told coal companies they may raise their prices to the same levels they charged during last winter's heating season, but said the rates could not be hiked to account for freight costs which have risen during the summer.

And the council said importers probably would be stuck for price increases caused by the deadline of the dollar's value in relation to other currencies. Thus if someone had been importing a television set for $125 and the cheaper dollar overseas caused the import price to rise, the importer would still have to charge his buyers $125. He can, however, pass on the new 10 per cent import tax.

The Office of Emergency Preparedness, which is handling the freeze from the local level on up to Washington, handed down several rulings of its own Tuesday, including one in which it told an unnamed shipyard that it could not raise its workers' wages by 18 cents an hour.

The shipyard had claimed that unless it raised its wages to meet competition from a rival firm, its workers would leave to work for the other outfit, or perhaps strike.

The OEP also turned down a tool company which wanted to raise its prices as they appeared in a new catalog which a slow printer was unable to deliver by Aug. 15, when the freeze began, and turned down salary increases for employes of an unidentified city who were due for raises Sept. 1.

On the international front, an administration official revealed that European governments are afraid the new import restrictions will deal them a double blow because of a little publicized aspect of President Nixon's new economic plan.

The official said the Europeans are disturbed about the 10 per cent border tax on imports, but are also equally worried about a restriction which says that U.S. firms may not claim the proposed 10 per cent investment tax credit on capital goods imported from abroad.

The official said other governments fear the two measures combined may in some cases result in a 20 per cent penalty on any U.S. firm wanting to import equipment. The investment tax credit provision is still subject to approval by Congress.

The same official, who declined to be identified, said he did not expect economic retaliation from Europe because of the import tax "in the near future." But he acknowledged that some strike-back might be expected if the import surcharge continued over "a period of time."

The overseas gap between the U.S. dollar and foreign currencies continued to narrow as the administration hoped it would when the president untied the dollar from its gold base. In New York the stock market declined on profit taking.

The Greatest Hazard On Highways—Young Drivers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Driving or riding with other youths is the greatest hazard standing between American young people and reaching adulthood.

The National Transportation Safety Board in a report on young drivers issued Monday said 17,700 young people between the ages of 15 and 25 were killed in traffic accidents in the United States in 1969.

This was 7,400 more than would have died if their fatality rate had been the same as that of drivers 25 and older. Young people in the age bracket made up only 21 per cent of the driving population but were involved in 34 per cent of the fatal accidents.

The board said the highway death rate for youths has been rising constantly for 17 years.

"Driving and riding with other young drivers constitute the greatest hazard to survival which American youth must pass successfully to reach adulthood," the board said.

The report recommended the National Highway Safety Administration consider extending the national highway safety program's standard on driver licensing "to provide for a two-year period of probationary licensing for drivers under 21."

It was recommended that during the two years drivers be expected to demonstrate "the achievement of competence and maturity in driving."

"Such provisional licensing would facilitate suspension or revocation for cause and placement of mildly errant drivers into improvement programs before poor behavior and attitudes become habitual," the board said.

The board listed as possible reasons for the disproportionate rate of young drivers involved in fatal accidents the increasing number of youngsters who are licensed as soon as they are old enough, increasing affluence which permits young persons to own automobiles, increasing use of alcohol and drugs by youths, and "possibly changes in respect for law and order."

Little Angels Of Korea Plan Marin Concert

Little Angels of Korea, a company of 33 young musicians, dancers and singers ranging in age from 11 through 15 will perform Sept. 26 at 3 p.m. in Forest Meadows, Dominican College, San Rafael, as the closing attraction on the Marin Music Chest summer concert series.

The ensemble will bring with them many changes of costume, exotic stage props and ancient instruments and a dance tradition extending back into the ages.

Many of the children are gold medal winners in the arts festival of Korea, and the entire dance group is considered the elite in the field of Korean folk dance.

New Pentagon Unit Will Tackle Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon has created a special medical office to deal with drug and alcohol abuse within the military, and will appoint a new deputy assistant defense secretary to head it.

Previous efforts in the field have been handled by Pentagon manpower experts. Officials said they hoped to better approach the problem with the new special office.

CONTROLLED BURN NEAR NOVATO

AMTRAK'S SPECIAL TRAIN

This is the three-car version of Amtrak's TurboTrain now on a coast-to-coast demonstration tour, covering more than 12,000 miles in 31 states. It is double-ended with an engineer's cab at each end to eliminate turn arounds. Observation domes are behind each car. The train has been clocked at more than 170 miles per hour in test runs. It is due to arrive at Chicago's Union Station on Thursday.

Capitol Fuss May Doom Tidelands

Political wrangling in Sacramento may cost conservationists the chance to save 367 acres of Tomales Bay tidelands from filling.

Today was the expiration date for a purchase option held by Conservation Associates, to acquire the tidelands owned by Point Reyes Station dairy rancher Waldo Giacomini.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-Sacramento, authored a bill in July which would provide the state Wildlife Conservation Board with up to $550,000 to buy the Giacomini tidelands — but the funds must come from state withholding tax, which has not yet passed the Legislature.

Giacomini applied for county permission to fill the tidelands late last year, declaring he wanted to make a pasture of the area. After strong protests were raised, the Conservation Alliance headed by George L. Collins of Ross obtained an option on the land last December, running through today.

Collins said today his group would be willing to ask Giacomini for an extension on the option but that the state or some other agency would have to buy the land.

Alvin Rutsch, deputy director of the state wildlife agency, said his office had not pressed negotiations because the funds still had not been approved.

Giacomini reported he has had no discussion with the state for the past two months, and was waiting to see what happens to the funding legislation.

Bagley's office said today the income tax withholding package would have high priority for action when the Legislature meets again next week. Unless the controversial bill is passed, none of a total of $55 million earmarked for coastal and wildlife area acquisition will be available, even though line items were included in the already approved state budget for 1971-72, Bagley aides and Rutsch pointed out.

Dollar Declines In Japan, Gains Slightly In London

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The U.S. dollar dropped in value by 5.86 per cent on the Tokyo currency exchange today, leveled off in West Germany at a devaluation of 7 per cent and gained slightly in London where new exchange controls held it at a devaluation of about 2.5 per cent.

Whether these devaluation figures would be enough to ease the U.S. monetary problems remained to be seen. The Nixon administration was reported hoping for a much higher figure in Japan—10 to 15 per cent—to improve the balance of trade with that country.

Japan announced Friday it was permitting the undervalued yen to float to its own level—but made it clear the Bank of Japan would step in and buy dollars if things got out of control. It had been fixed at 360 yen to the dollar which American economic experts said was an undervaluation.

Foreign exchange market sources in Tokyo said $137 million in dollars were sold today at the rate of 339.1 to one. The sources said it was not known immediately whether the bank of Japan had stepped in to maintain this ratio.

Despite the Washington efforts to drive the value of the yen upward—and thus increase the cost of Japanese exports to the United States—Japan's vice minister of finance, Takashi Hosomi, expressed confidence today Japanese goods will continue to sell well in America.

"The mark up on some of Japan's exports is pretty high," he told a news conference in Tokyo. "In some cases it is up to 300 per cent. That leaves a lot of room for bargaining with American distributors, even if the prices are frozen."

He said Japanese goods entering the United States now face the combined disadvantages of a 6 per cent increase in the price of Japanese currency plus the 10 per cent surcharge announced by President Nixon on Aug. 15. But he added: "Japan's economy still has vitality and can make adjustments. I'm not very pessimistic."

In London the dollar gained strength in relation to the pound in the first trading session since Friday when the Bank of England and the Treasury imposed new exchange controls to prevent international funds flooding into the country.

Initially the dollar improved but leveled out at $2.4610, a market devaluation of 2 1-2 per cent. The price of gold slumped again in London, falling 35 cents an ounce to $41, its lowest since mid-July.

In Paris the dollar fell in interbank trading to 5.32 to the dollar, a drop of 4.2 per cent from the official parity of 5.55. The dollar inched ahead slightly in Brussels, and was steady in quiet trading in West Germany. German economic experts predicted the 7 per cent devaluation there would hold.

On Monday, the dollar weakened in Paris and Stockholm but gained ground slightly in Frankfurt and Zurich. But with London closed most dealers reported quiet day with little change in the basic pattern of rates.

The dollar fell to a new low of 5.33 French francs on the "floating" market used for speculative and investment transactions, including tourists. This was a 3.7 per cent devaluation of the dollar on the old official rate of 5.51.

On the fixed commercial market in Paris, the Bank of France had to step in to prop up the dollar at its floor level of 5.5125 francs. Financial sources said the bank purchased $100 million—the largest sum it has bought since President Nixon announced his save-the-dollar moves Aug. 15.

In Stockholm the dollar fell below 5 Swedish kronor for the first time since World War II —down to 4.975 or a 2.8 per cent devaluation against the old level of 5.18.

In Frankfurt, the dollar closed Monday at 3.4015 marks, equivalent to a 7.6 per cent revaluation on the old 3.66 rate in May before Bonn floated the mark. The rate Friday had amounted to a 7.74 per cent revaluation.

The Bank of England Friday announced severe exchange controls on funds flowing into and out of the country. Long-term overseas investment not only has to obtain official permission, but, if granted, has to bear a surcharge in the shape of a dollar premium which amounted to 23.75 per cent.

Hard Fried Eggs Halt Boy's Allergy

LONDON (UPI)—The boy was allergic to fried eggs and even the smallest quantity gave him serious nettle-rash of the tongue and throat. But the allergy disappeared if the eggs were fried on both sides.

"It is interesting to note", said Dr. D. Blair Macaulay in a new booklet, "You and Your Allergy", "that the allergic properties of some foods can be destroyed by cooking at a high temperature."

Dr. Macaulay was assigned by the Family Doctor unit of the British Medical Association to compile the booklet on the latest advances and thinking on allergies and their treatment.

The bad news is that no "cure" as such is on the horizon but there is good news for sufferers who will follow general guidelines.

Dr. Macaulay says allergies are as capricious as ever with cases of allergic reactions to detergents, garters, spectacle frames, rubber girdles and—in the case of a man who sneezed uncontrollably when he kissed his wife—face powder.

A circus roustabout got asthmatic attacks but only when he went to feed a pet tiger cub. A young man developed attacks of sneezing and asthma from no apparent cause till exhaustive tests showed he was sensitive to dry rot. His house appeared sound and dry but when the kitchen floor was lifted there was the dry rot.

A man who owned a printing works kept suffering from periodic attacks of eczema. Examination of his firm's books showed the attacks coincided with the use of a special blue ink—and examination of the ink showed it contained cobalt to which he was violently sensitive.

Dr. Macaulay says the first thing a sufferer should do is take tests to establish that he definitely has an allergy. The second is to avoid the items that trigger it off; even to getting rid of family pets. Sentiment has no place in treatment of allergies.

The allergist recommends that hay fever sufferers consider spending more time indoors in the pollen season and vacationing on or by the sea during the period. Those sensitive to dust should vacuum clean their homes frequently.

Anti-histamine drugs are also helpful in some conditions and so is "desensitisation", the injection of extracts made from the offending substances such as grass pollen or animal scurfs.

Youths Rob Woman 73, On Street

They made their escape, although chased by a witness, San Rafael police reported.

Geneva M. Morris of 110 Laurel Place was walking in the 1200 block of Fourth Street about 8:30 p.m. when she was attacked, according to police. She struggled with her attackers who knocked her to the sidewalk and then took her purse.

A witness, Wayne V. Ruben of Corte Madera, chased the two young men, but gave up the chase when he heard Mrs. Morris screaming. He went back to help her.

The men were described as Caucasians 18 to 20 years of age, both about five feet 10 to 11 inches tall. One had dark shoulder length hair and a mustache. He was wearing blue pants and a dark jacket. The other had blond shoulder length hair and was clean shaven. He was wearing blue pants and a tan jacket.

Ruben said the dark haired one grabbed Mrs. Morris's purse but the blond haired one took the billfold from the purse at Fourth and C streets. The purse was recovered but the billfold with identification papers was taken, according to police.

Mrs. Morris was shaken up in the scuffle and police took her home.

Man Booked On Suspicion Of Assault

John Knox Scullion, 245 Meadow Way, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of battery on a police officer and resisting arrest. He posted $1,875 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said Scullion pushed Officer David A. Oliva when Oliva asked Scullion to stay on the other side of the road while he questioned a witness to an accident Scullion was involved in at 7:30 p.m. at 1021 San Anselmo Avenue.

After handcuffing Scullion, Oliva and Officer Michael McLucas had to force him in the patrol car, according to the police report. In the struggle, police said Scullion bit Oliva and kicked him in the face.

Scullion's car was in a ditch and police said he told them he ended up there trying to miss a dog. A witness told police Scullion was driving unsafely, according to the police report.

A Sweet-Tooth Solution For Italy Coin Shortage

ROME (UPI)—Italy has a monetary crisis that is really a sweetie.

It stems from the fact shopkeepers often give customers candy instead of small coins as change and a member of parliament wants the state to nationalize the practice.

Sen. Augusto Premoli's suggestion touched off a nationwide rumpus about the same time President Nixon started the world buzzing about the future of the U.S. dollar.

Premoli may have been joking. But he touched some sensitive nerves when he asked Finance Minister Luigi Preti to consider legalizing the practice of giving candy for change. Even Preti reacted by saying he hoped the treasury was considering the problem.

"Sure, I give caramels to customers when I don't have any five, 10 or 20 lire pieces," said Rome bar owner Giacomo Montanari. "Some customers don't like, but I don't have any coins. Nobody does."

It sometimes looks that way.

The government admits it cannot mint enough coins to keep up with demand. Production totaled 83 million coins last year, but officials say it did not make up for the number which were lost, put into piggy banks or otherwise taken out of circulation.

Shopkeepers say even the 100 lire coin, worth 16 cents, are starting to disappear from circulation.

Few customers grumble if given a piece of candy instead of a five lire piece, worth a fraction of a penny, or even a 10 lire piece. But several pieces of candy bring howls.

"I think my butcher hides coins and gives me candy he buys at about half the value," said Mrs. Irma Miscia.

Colombo Not Mob Victim?

NEW YORK (UPI) — The head of the U.S. Crime Task Force for the Southern District of New York said Monday he thought reputed underworld leader Joseph Colombo Sr. was shot by a "psychopath," and was not the victim of organized crime warfare.

Daniel B. Hollman said he thought Jerome Johnson, the man who shot Colombo during an Italian-American Unity Day rally in Columbus Circle on June 28, was not hired by rival Brooklyn gangsters as police have theorized.

Colombo was taken to his son's home in Brooklyn on Saturday morning in a "semicomotose" state, according to a spokesman at Roosevelt Hospital.

20,000 Homing Pigeons Fail To Return In Race

DERBY, England (UPI)—It was the worst disaster in the history of homing pigeon racing, organizers said today.

An estimated 20,000 homing pigeons worth about $600,000 released in a weekend race failed to return to their lofts, said officials of the North Road Federation from the cities of Durham, North Allerton and Morpeth which organized the race for birds from more than six British counties.

"The whole thing is still a mystery," a federation statement said.

"One can only assume that the birds ran into a fog belt turned around and went the other way. They could now be either in Scotland or on the continent (of Europe) . . . homing racing will take a long time to recover from this disaster."

Serious Crime On Rise In U.S; Cities Show Biggest Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government reported today that serious crime in the United States was up 11 per cent last year, but rose "at a slower rate than in 1969." (See another story, page 27.)

The FBI's 1970 Uniform Crime Reports issued today indicated that the chances of being a victim of serious crime were almost two and a half times greater than a decade ago, although the population has risen only 13 per cent during that period.

The report indicated that nationwide during 1970, one of every 36 Americans fell victim to murder, robbery, rape, assault, burglary or theft.

In the big cities, the figure was one out of 29; in smaller cities, one out of 29, and in rural areas, one out of 107.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said in a press release accompanying the report that though serious crime continued to increase in 1970 —up 11 per cent over 1969, it did so "at a slower rate than in 1969."

The report came on the heels of a local controversy in which District of Columbia police are being investigated to determine if they have falsified reports to make it appear that the crime rate is falling in the nation's capital.

The FBI reported a total of 5.5 million serious crimes last year, up 11 per cent from 1969 and 176 per cent from 1960. The national crime index rate per 100,000 persons climbed 144 per cent from 1960 to 2,740 or slightly more than one in 36.

While crime rose, the ability of police to solve it remained static. Only 20 per cent of serious crimes were solved in 1970 —the same as in 1969 but down from a solution rate of 31 per cent in 1960.

The FBI report pointed to a number of factors, including "court decisions which have resulted in restrictions on police investigative and enforcement practices," and increased workloads as a result of such noncriminal matters as riots, disturbances and marchers.

Much of the report was devoted to police killings which reached a high of 100 last year for a decade total of 633, and an increase from the 86 murdered in 1969.

Urging police officers urgently to be "more alert than ever before in connection with all their duties," the FBI survey showed that in the past 10 years 156 officers were killed in two-man patrol cars between the hours of 4 p.m. and 8 a.m.

The next most dangerous shift was the one-man patrol car between the same hours when 126 were killed.

Sixty-eight police detectives or men on special assignment were killed while assisted on the 4 p.m. to 8 a.m. shift; 28 men on these assignnments were killed while alone during the same period; and 24 officers alone on foot patrol were killed during this time slot.

Of the 6.2 million persons arrested in 1970 for serious crimes, 69.9 per cent were white and 27 per cent were Negro, while Indians, Japanese and other races made up the remaining 3.1 per cent.

Some 74.7 per cent of the arrests were of persons over 18; 25.3 per cent of persons under 18; and 9.2 per cent of persons under 15. By sex, 85.6 per cent of crimes were committed by men and 14.4 per cent by women.

Firearms continued to be the most used weapon in the 15,810 murders committed last year. In 65.4 per cent of the killings, firearms were used followed by 18.9 per cent by knives.

Running Around In Their Undies

Well it's back to the old salt mine after a month of subbing for vacationing cohorts. It's good to be back in the corner because I have missed you Bunkies.

Let's see, where do I start? Oh, yes, Sunday's Dipsea Race, an artistic as well as athletic success. Imagine, more than 1,200 men, women and kids, dressed up in their skivvies, running from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach over the shoulders of Mt. Tamalpais. Heck, the perspiration alone was enough to irrigate all of Southern Marin.

Mill Valley hasn't seen such an exodus since the great fire of '29, the only difference being the Dipsea runners had numbers on their underwear.

Likewise, Stinson Beach hasn't seen such an influx since the debut of the Bikini. Twelve hundred tongues hanging out! Twelve-thousand throbbing toes! Heck, I'd just like to have the cornplaster concession for the one day. The Donner Party was in better shape than the Dipsea Party.

To me, the most significant innovation to the 6.8-mile footrace was the official recognition of female entries by the staid old Amateur Athletic Union which sanctions this historic Marin County bunion brigade. Boy, they don't know what they've been missing all these years. I've officially recognized fast women all my adult life. Should I tell the AAU?

Anyway, first "official" woman to cross the finish line Sunday was Dr. Fran Conley, 31, a good looker who is a neurosurgeon at Stanford. She astounded all experts by finishing in fifth place, a remarkable performance for a twist 'n' twirl (that's a girl).

Women's Lib is making great strides, literally and figuratively. Speaking of figures, I look for a cupcake to win the Dipsea some day. In a close male-female finish, for example, the more bountifully endowed creampuff would enjoy a double-barreled advantage in breasting the tape, I said pointedly. Or, as the cigarette commercial or football coach would have you believe, "It's what's up front that counts."

Turning to the more athletic aspects of the great run for a Dip in the Sea, several athletes contributed outstanding feats, or, in this case, feets.

Particularly, Mike Boitano of San Francisco who at 9 became the Dipsea's youngest handicap winner, and Novato's Ron Elijah whose scratch time of 46 minutes, 8 seconds set a new record.

It was ironic that Elijah broke the mark set 12 months earlier by his good friend and running companion, Don Makela, also of Novato. Some friend, indeed! The new record holder, by the way, is employed by the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department for the summer, between semesters at Humboldt State College in Arcata. The Dipsea was just a warmup for Elijah. He just might run back to school.

Another interesting entrant was defending champion Norman Bright of Seattle. Last August, at age 60, he was clocked at 59:46 in winning the handicap honors. Sunday, in placing second to Boitano, he finished in 60:08. The white thatched Bright has slowed (22 seconds, to be precise) with advanced age. Come on, Norman, shake a leg. There's no generation gap in this race. Winner 9 years old, runnerup 61.

Among the former Dipsea champions in attendance was Paul Chirone of San Anselmo who in 1937 became the first Marin County product to win the Dipsea. His leg in a cast to the hip as the result of recent surgery, Chirone was driven to the race by friends.

He epitomized the event. I mean, it was a good show with a big cast.

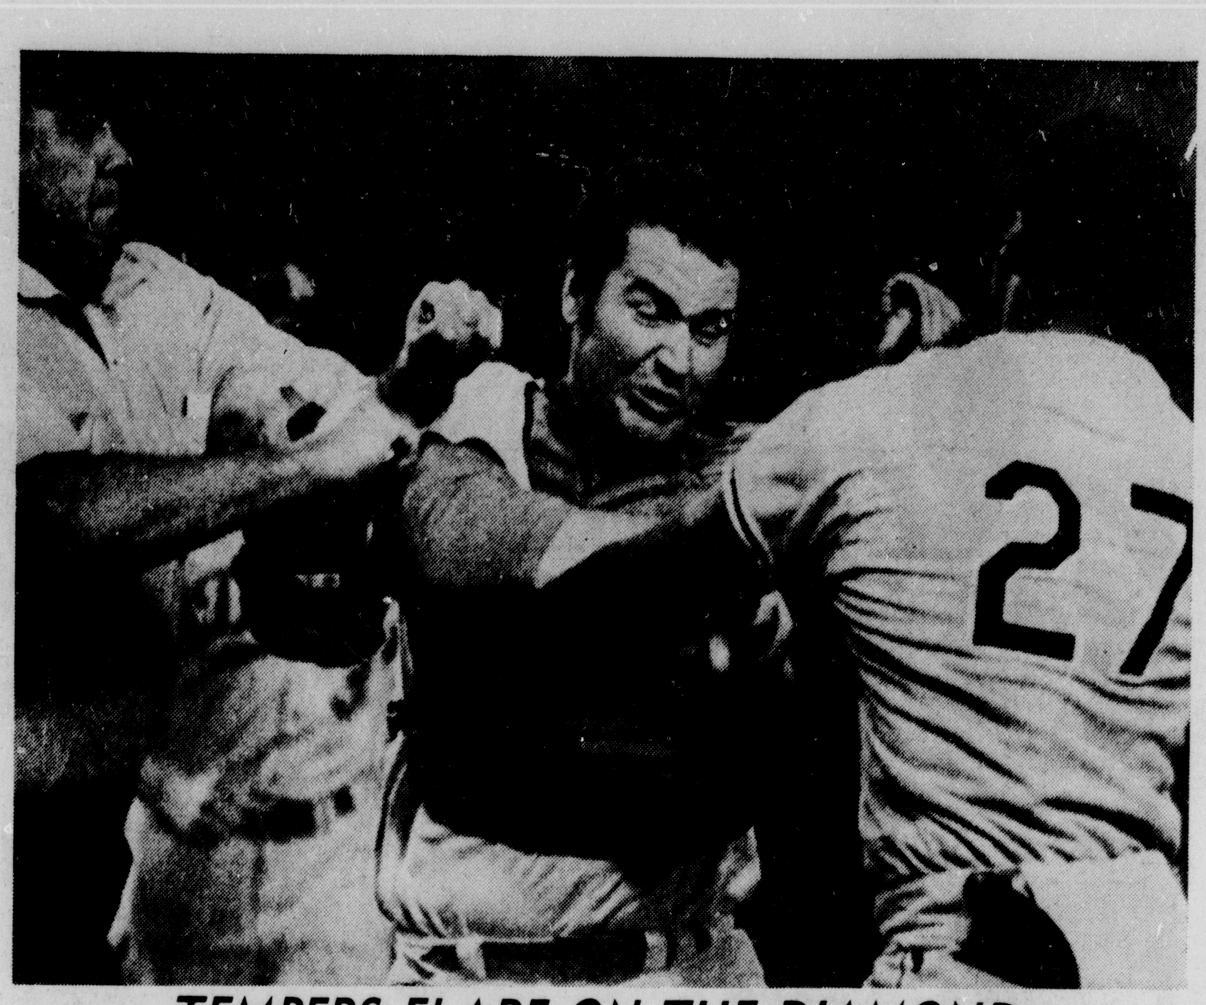

MY OLD FRIEND Vernon "Lefty" Gomez of Fairfax, star southpaw pitcher for the New York Yankees back in the 1930s, will be feted tomorrow night by the PALO Sports Club in Palo Alto for his outstanding 14-year record in the major leagues during which he won 189 games while losing 102.

In five World Series, Lefty was unbeaten in six starts; he was the American League starter in five All-Star games and in 1934 topped the A.L. with a 26-5 record with a 2.33 earned run average and six shutouts.

Goofy Gomez, as Lefty was called because of his zany personality, likes to poke fun at himself in spite of his brilliant record. A roommate of the great Joe DiMaggio in their Yankee hey-dey, Gomez laughs: "Shucks, I made a star out of DiMaggio. He didn't know how to get back for a fly ball until he played in back of me. Good thing he was my roomie or I wouldn't have known what he looked like. Out on the field all I saw was his back."

Now a public relations representative for Wilson Sporting Goods, Lefty likes to recall the hard-drinking days of the Bronx Bombers. Now a tea-totaller, Gomez was asked at a recent banquet if it were true that some of the Yankee super-stars of yesteryear would polish off a quart of booze a day. Deadpanned Lefty: "Shucks, ma'am, we used to SPILL that much."

The PALO Club will love Lefty tomorrow night.

TEMPERS FLARE ON THE DIAMOND

Umpire Paul Pryor tried to separate Houston catcher Jack Hiatt (center) and Los Angeles Dodger outfielder Willie Crawford during a first inning melee last night in the Astrodome. Crawford's ire was aimed at Astro pitcher Ken Forsch who had allegedly thrown one too close for the flychaser's comfort. Crawford went after the pitcher, but Hiatt intervened, thus triggering the fight. Both were ejected and the Dodgers went on to win 3-2. See story on page 31.

LACKING KEY WEAPONS

Punchless Jets Hurting

By United Press International.

The season may have ended for the New York Jets this year before it started.

Their offense has been reduced to popgun proportions with the biggest weapons in their arsenal-quarterback Joe Namath and fullback Matt Snell — spiked in exhibition games.

Their hopes for a fast start during the preliminary skirmishes have been dashed. The unbeaten Kansas City Chiefs defeated the Jets 21-16 Monday night, the New Yorkers' third loss in four pre-season games, but the biggest loss by far was Snell.

The bruising fullback seemed on the way to an amazing comeback this season after recovering from a torn Achilles tendon last year when he was hit hard by Willie Lanier and Caesar Belser at the end of a five-yard gain. He limped from the field, and his right knee was swollen and packed with ice in the dressing room.

"We don't know how serious it is yet," a Jets spokesman explained. Snell will undergo examination in New York today for a complete diagnosis, which could carry the fate of the Jets with it.

The Chiefs also may have suffered a major loss. Warren McVea, their explosive scatback, was taken to the hospital for bruised ribs, and Otis Taylor, who caught four passes for 128 yards, was taken out of the game after the play on which he set up the winning Td. Taylor's injury was diagnosed as a minor bruise, however.

X-rays also were scheduled for Namath's replacement, Al Woodall, for a possible fracture of the left hand. Woodall was 7-for-16 for 107 yards in the first half before Bob Davis came in for the second half to complete four-for-11 for 40 yards with two interceptions.

With Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson being intercepted four times to the boos of the hometown fans, the quarterback who got the lone ovation of the evening was Namath, hobbling across the field on crutches.

After Dawson hit wide receiver Taylor on a 51-yard bomb to the Jets' 12, Ed Podolak carried four consecutive times, finally plunging over from the one for the winning touchdown with 6:36 remaining.

Dawson connected on a 20-yard to Taylor for the Chiefs' opening touchdown in the first quarter, and other one-yard dive made it 14-6 at halftime.

However, the Jets came back for a 16-14 lead when Larry Grantham intercepted a pass by substitute quarterback Mike Livingston and carried it eight yards for a touchdown, and Bobby Howfield booted his third field goal of the game from 34 yards out in the third quarter.

Elsewhere, the Dallas Coboys picked up Forrest Gregg, a 14-year veteran offensive tackle. Gregg, who cleared waivers, said he will play through the exhibition season before deciding whether to retire. Wide receiver Margene Adkins, with a broken foot, and cornerback Mel Renfro, with a twisted knee and sprained ankle, were veterans placed on the injured waived list of the Cowboys. Also waived were guard Tom Jones of South Dakota State and tackle Sam Adams of Prairie View A&M.

The Los Angeles Rams said they came out of their 31-21 win over New England with injuries to kick return specialist Alvin Haymond (bruised thigh), offensive tackle Charlie Cowan (injured ankle) and linebacker John Pergine (strained hamstring muscle)... Boston lost cornerback Daryl Johnson for eight to 10 weeks with a broken left ankle.

Green Bay coach Dan Devine will start veteran quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, who has seen only limited action because of back problems, against Cincinnati on Saturday night... Philadelphia cut six rookies, quarterback Bob Stewart of Northern Arizona, quarterback Jim Ettinger of Kansas, wide receiver Dave Williams of Western State, center Dave Urie of Montana, defensive back Tom Campbell of Texas and defensive end Ben Francis, Chadron State.

NO UNTOUCHABLES

Shakeup Is Due For Red Sox

BOSTON (UPI)—August has been a bad month for the Boston Red sox, and the officials have decided to do something about it.

"It's been a long month," said general manager Dick O'Connell. "I don't like it. On Aug. 4, we were damn near in first place. Now look where we are. It's practically unbelievable.

"There are going to be changes. You are going to have to do something to change, or people are not going to accept you when you are playing as badly as we've been playing this month."

The Red Sox have just finished a western road trip with a 3-7 record. Today, they host the Baltimore Orioles, with Gary Peters pitching for Boston against Jim Palmer.

Yaz, believed the highest-paid player in baseball, is hitting about .260, the worst slump in his 10-year career.

Yawkey was asked Monday if he would trade Yastrzemski. "Under the circumstances of our ball club," he answered, "I cannot say anybody on the team is not up for trade if the right deal came along."

Later Yawkey said this deal would be awfully expensive. "I know Yaz is having an off year under the circumstances, but I doubt that there's a club that could make an offer attractive enough to get him," he said.

The building included calling seven players from the minor leagues. O'Connell said Monday they would report within a week.

The group included hardhitting first baseman-outfielder Cecil Cooper from Pawtucket of the Eastern League and six players from Louisville of the International League-pitchers John Curtis, Mike Garman and Mike Nagy, catcher Carleton Fisk,-outfielder Ben Oglivie and shortstop Juan Beniquez.

Perry To Pitch Tonight Against Hopeful Braves

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants might find a determined bunch of Atlanta Braves coming to call at Candlestick Park when they open a two-game home set tonight.

While the Giants have opened up an 8-game bulge on second place Los Angeles, third-place Atlanta is 9 1-2 back and needs a sweep to keep its dim chances alive.

San Francisco will send Gaylord Perry to the hill tonight against George Stone of the Braves.

San Francisco meanwhile has filled its last roster spot by bringing up Jim Willoughby from Phoenix in time to make him eligible for the playoffs and World Series.

Willoughby was 14-9 at Phoenix and throughout his brief career he has shown a durable arm that can go in relief or as a starter.

The Giants worked out a successful pattern on the road in which rookie power belter Dave Kingman starts at first against southpaws so that Willie McCovey, another guy who can hit for the distance, can rest his aching knees.

A's To Send Odom To Mound Tonight

ANAHEIM (UPI) — The Oakland A's, with a fat 16-game bulge over Kansas City and well rested with a day off yesterday, take on the California Angels tonight in the opener of a two-game series.

The A's will send Blue Moon Odom (9-9) against the Angels' Tom Murphy (6-13).

Odom, who may yet win a starting spot in the American League playoffs, hurled his first complete game in a month Friday night. He beat the Washington Senators 6-2 starting a four-game sweep that shoved the A's 16 games in front in the American League West.

Largest winning margin in American League history is 19 1-2 games, set by the 1936 New York Yankees. However, that was before division play began. If the league were still in one group, Oakland would lead Baltimore by just 2 1-2 games.

Leach Wins His Opener At Spyglass

In other action, Paul Spengler, former Drake High School star, bowed 7 and 5 to Dave Shipley.

Spengler was not alone in a battle against frustration; 1969 titlist Lee Cook ran into putting troubles and fell to Jim Sullivan, 4 and 3. Fresno 18-year-old Conrad Nilmeier downed last year's winner Steve Bohn of Roseville in still another surprise.

Medalist Sandy McCall, a Stanford psychology major, tasted defeat, compliments of Dick McClean of Carmel. McClean used the long drive and an accurate short game for his win.

Alex Johnson's Case Goes Before Arbitrator

DETROIT (UPI)—An arbitrator today received the case of Alex Johnson, the 1970 American League batting champion, who claims he should have been put on the California Angels' disabled list for "emotional reasons" rather than being suspended indefinitely.

Johnson and his attorney, Marvin Miller, sought to convince Louis Gill, a member of the National Academy of Arbitrators, that Johnson should receive about half his $52,500 season's salary and receive pension credit for the time spent under suspension.

Club officials suspended Johnson June 26 for "failure to give his best efforts". He had been fined 29 times during the early part of the season for what the club said was a lack of hustle.

Angels owner Gene Autry earlier said Johnson, 28, would not be given his release and would be saved for trading this fall.

Miller, who also is president of the Major League Players' Association through which the grievance was filed, said he would "bring in professional testimony" in order to prove the Angels should have recognized that Johnson was a man in need of psychiatric attention.

Flag Football In Mill Valley

Boys in fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades can sign up for flag football between 9 a.m. and noon Thursday and Friday at the Community Recreation Center, 180 Camino Alto, Mill Valley.

Practices will be held after school hours and league games will be played on Saturdays.

49ers Must Trim Seven From Roster

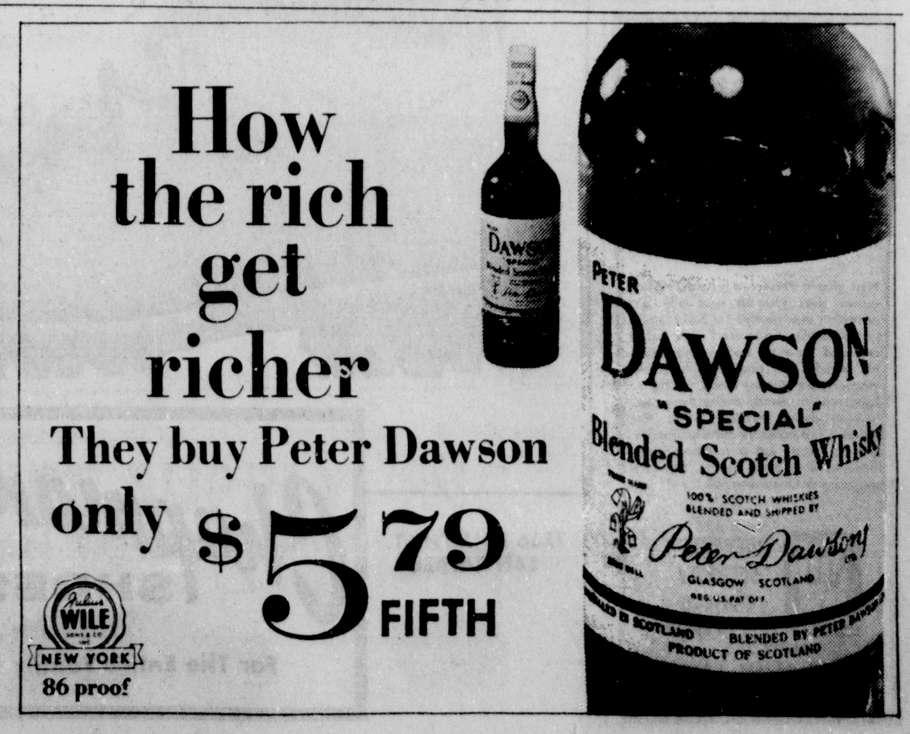

GOLETA (UPI) —The San Francisco 49ers have to slice seven men from their squad today to get down to the league limit of 49.

The 49ers are overloaded with running backs and receivers, most of whom could land a job with almost any other National Football League club. Thus the team might also choose to make a trade for a high draft choice rather than just turn some of their troops loose.

The prospectors play Oakland Saturday night and a new glamor guy in camp is unhealded quarterback Joe Reed, who showed remarkable poise in a fine late-game show against Denver.

Reed did not see that he had done anything special.

"I don't think I did so well," he said. "I only completed 5 of 13. Sure, some were dropped, but you can't count those. That can happen to anybody. And besides, I wasn't used to the receivers, and they weren't used to me."

Rookie Of Year: Speier Or Phillies 'Hot Dog'?

Manager Frank Lucchesi of the Phillies said he would be very disappointed if his centerfielder Willie Montanez isn't voted National League Rookie of the Year.

Manager Charlie Fox of the Giants said he would be very disappointed if his shortstop Chris Speier isn't voted the honor.

MEMBERS OF the Baseball Writers Association of America pick the outstanding rookie, also the Most Valuable Player and the season's best pitcher who is awarded the Cy Young trophy.

When two worthy rookie candidates pop up in the same season, baseball writers usually, but not always, lean toward the rookie who has performed under the greatest pressure. Speier gets the nod here.

MONTANEZ HASN'T been under the season long pennant pressure that the rookie shortstop of the Giants has. If Speier continues to withstand the pressure that will become more severe in the final weeks of the Giants' pennant drive he should be the favorite in the post-season balloting.

There are 27 errors on Speier's statistical record. At first glance the errors create a negative feeling about the effectiveness of Speier's glove. But the fact is that without Speier's glove the Giants wouldn't be leading the National League West as they have since April 12.

MORE THAN half of Speier's errors resulted this season from trying to get too many outs on one play. Of all the errors he's made, less than a dozen were directly due to mishandling ground balls. His aggressiveness in challenging everything doesn't show in the statistics.

However, the statistics do point up his participation in 79 double plays in 604 chances — 202 putouts and 402 assists. Don Kessinger, the All-Star shortstop of the Cubs these past seasons, handled a total of 758 chances last year and 86 DPs. Kessinger made 22 errors last year.

SPEIER'S BAT since the All-Star break hasn't been as hot as it was during the first half of the season. Speier's batting average has sagged from .264 at the midseason break to .240. Still, it has been good for seven game-winning hits, plus six homers, six triples and 12 doubles.

The case for Montanez:

HE IS a good centerfielder and he is hitting .260 with 26 homers and 83 RBIs which lead all Phillies. Montanez, in the words of one Philadelphia baseball writer, "also leads the club in bat-twirling and helmet tossing."

To such remarks, Lucchesi has this to say:

"I KNOW it's around the league Montanez is a big hot dog. They may think he's a hot dog. But my answer to that is I'll take 25 hot dogs. He may be a hot dog until he gets into the batter's box."

Lucchesi says it was a blessing in disguise when Curt Flood refused to report to the Phillies in the Rich Allen trade. There was talk about getting one of the regular St. Louis Cardinals in compensation. Finally, it was decided the Phillies would choose two players from a Cardinal list that included no regulars. Montanez was one of the players picked by the Phillies.

"IT WAS a blessing, certainly, but occasionally mixed," said the Philadelphia writer who gave Montanez high marks in bat-twirling and helmet-tossing.

"There was a game in St. Louis when Montanez caught up to a long drive toward right center, gave it a flashy stab with his glove and bounced the ball off the turf. Three runners were on at the time. All scored."

Montreal Sells Seals A Player

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Defenseman Marshall Johnston was purchased in a "straight cash deal" Monday by the California Golden Seals hockey club from the Montreal Canadiens.

A spokesman said no other players were involved in the purchase from the American League of the 5-11, 185 lb., Johnston.

Johnston comes to the National Hockey League with an impressive record of 11 goals and 45 assists last season for 56 points. He also was winner of the Eddie Shore trophy for outstanding defenseman.

Others waited in line after the gruelling 6.8-mile run that set a number of records: Total entry, fastest time of 46 minutes, 8 seconds by Ron Elijah of Novato and youngest handicap winner, 9-year-old Mike Boitano of San Francisco.

Sparky Anderson's Contract Renewed

CINCINNATI (UPI)——Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson has been rehired for the 1972 season, just as he had expected despite the club's second division status this year after winning the 1970 National League pennant.

Anderson, who took over in October 1969 from the fired Dave Bristol, said "I never really thought I'd be fired" and predicted the team will be a contender next year.

"This club is gonna come back and be on top," Anderson said Monday night.

"Let me put it this way. We've got a better chance of being on top than the other clubs have of protecting it," he said.

Reds General Manager Bob Howsam, who also renewed the contracts of the entire coaching staff, said "it was an easy decision to make."

"Now all of us are concerned with bouncing back," Howsam said.

Coaches given new contracts were Alex Grammas, former Red slugger Ted Kluszewski, George Scherger and Larry Shepard.

Terms of the one-year contract signed by Anderson were not revealed.

Larry Schmidt continued his heavy hitting, belting a grand slam in a losing cause for the Sons of Sicily. Jim Armstrong had five hits for Fly-by-Nights. Pete Cannon and Tom Shipsey were the big guns in the Wild Bunch attack with three and two hits, respectively.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

San Marin Shy Of Experience

(First in a series on Marin County Athletic League football prospects.)

By RON LENT

With sunshine being the only bright spot in the San Marin High School varsity football picture this fall, Coach Bob Martin realizes 1971 must be a developmental year.

Only 22 aspirants turned out for the opening day of practice Aug. 23, much to Martin's dismay. However, he believes, "We have some good talent."

Martin lauds quarterback Hoza Wright, 6-foot-1½, 185 pounds, as a smart signal caller with good passing and running skills. His only drawback is inexperience, a commodity shared by most everyone on this numerically minute-sized squad.

Wright likes to throw, a good thing considering San Marin may be forced into playing a lot of "catch-up" ball. When Wright displays his passing ability, it is likely that senior wingback Mary Larson will be on the other end of it. "He is the best San Marin receiver ever," Martin says.

In fact, he is the only one, because the team has no other with varsity catching experience.

Like the end corps, San Marin has only one proven commodity in another important area — running back. Veteran Fred Doer, a hard-hitting 6-2, 190 pounder, returns to provide power running and blocking. If he is successful, this would make it easier for the likes of Mark Anderson or Greg Sherwood to break in at the other rushing slot.

They have yet to break a sweat in varsity competition, but they could do well if the burly line comes through. Pete Mumma, 6-2, 240, heads this group. Center Bud Smith, 6-1, 185 and tackle Steve Fowler, 6-1, 180 should help. The guard positions are wide open, but Matt Sherrill, 6-1, 165, and Mike Couch, 6-0, 170, have hopes of nailing down the starting posts.

Many of these same hopefuls will be two-way performers, if only out of necessity, with Mumma, Smith, Doer and Larson cases in point at tackle, middle guard, linebacker and halfback, respectively.

If enthusiasm could win games, it is likely San Marin would be a Marin County Athletic League leader. Unfortunately for San Marin followers, only points count toward victory. To this end, first-time performers such as David Day, Len Cason, George Hoberg, Steve Baldocchi and Bob Briot lend six-point spirit and potential.

In studying this group, Martin explains that Briot, 6-0, 165, has possibilities at end. David Day, 5-11, 200 displays good tackle size as does the plodding Hoberg, 6-1, 230. Baldocchi, 5-10, 165, is viewed as a tough-socking linebacker.

All these boys will receive much action in the season ahead; meanwhile, Martin is subjecting them to an intensive conditioning program to minimize later injuries. "We just can't afford to have people get hurt," Martin states, particularly in the secondary and end categories.

Martin is hoping more candidates will come out when school starts but is not overly optimistic over the chances of gaining reinforcements. "Some people saw the handwriting on the wall and decided not to come out. They just didn't want to play unless it is with a winner," Martin notes.

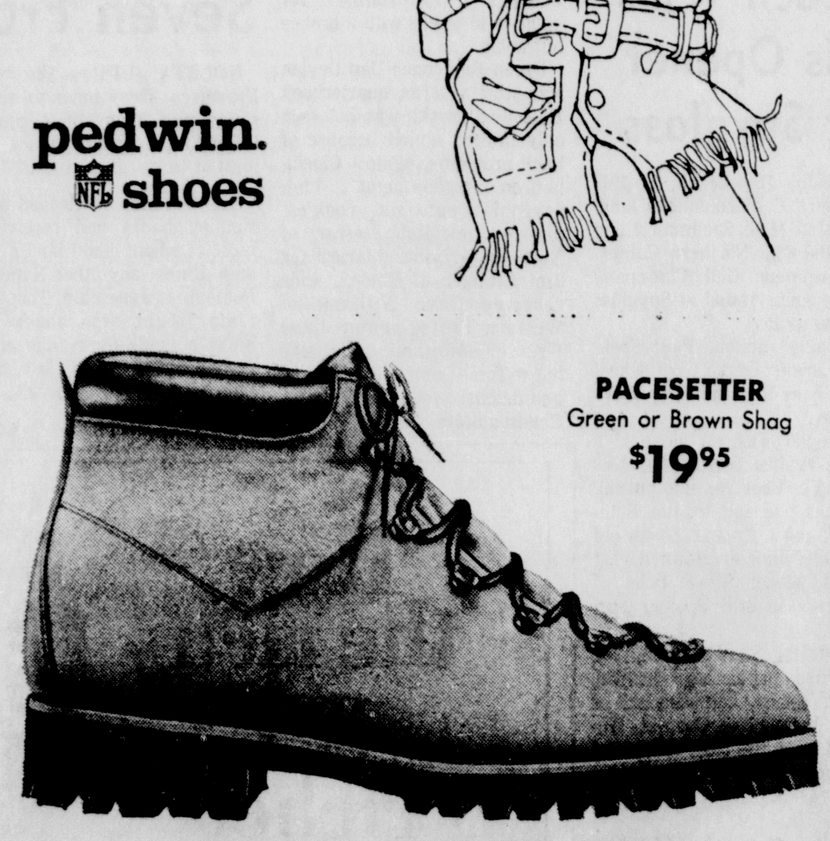

However, the ones showing up did so knowing they would be battling both the odds and numbers in the season ahead; they believe it can be done.

Ocean Anglers Warned Of Treacherous Area

By AL GIDDINGS

Both Tomales Bay and the ocean outside the bar there were flat as a pancake Saturday when 126 boats were all working the area outside of Bird Rock. Salmon and rockfish were most of the fare of the day. A 52-pound salmon taken there last week probably triggered the rush of action.

It's a fantastically beautiful area when it's right! But don't get careless there! Another drowning victim of the area was claimed at the treacherous bar last week.

If there are high swells on the ocean, even though they are not breaking, they probably will break at the bar. The ocean outside the bar is 30 to 60 feet deep, so the trap is set when a 30 or 40 foot swell rolls in, climbs up on top of the bar, which is only between 6 and 10 feet deep, then has nothing else to do but break and roll. A boat caught in this break and roll can be literally pitched over, or if the boat broaches, it can be rolled.

Fishing is always good at the bar; some people actually anchor on it! If it's flat without swells, it seems perfectly safe. But you're sitting on a potential hot bed! Single and sometimes up to three swells develop outside at times for little apparent reason; then in comes the potential breaking swell to the bar.

I described to you last year Pete Gossage's boat (Pete is a 20 year Tomales Bay angler) when he got into one of those swells. I thought he was a goner; his boat looked like it fell 20 feet from the top. When the swell breaks at times it leaves you up in the air. In these cases, the impact of hitting the water after the fall is present. The boat sometimes will land on one of its riders. This happened last week, and the man was lost.

Most of the wise and experienced anglers who fish Tomales head down the bay from Nick's Cove, or Dillon's Beach, but before they cross the bar which is marked by a high red cliff rock projection on one side and a black buoy on the other, they stop and watch the bar action. The closer one passes to the shoreline or red cliff area, the less chance for a breaker. The area near the black buoy is the danger area, and east of the black buoy toward Dillon's Beach can break at anytime.

If you watch the bar just five or ten minutes or so, you can generally tell how things are outside. If the bar is flat and stays flat, outside probably will be the same.

How about outside after once getting over the bar? There's a reef, another good place to fish for lings and rockfish, that runs from Tomales Point out to the Whistle buoy, about one mile in length. Breakers can form here also. Trolling the area will give you a snagup every time. It's not the safest area unless you are well experienced with this area.

Out by the bell or whistle and around Tomales Point to Bird Rock, probably staying out approximately 500 yards from the rocks is the best and safest trolling areas. It's best to get an early start to avoid the afternoon winds. If you are out there and the winds come up — go home! If you stay too long, then you will have to go out around the whistle buoy to avoid crossing the reef which will begin to break. Ride the swells easy, going in with them. Check the bar action, then go through remembering to pass close to the cliffs, though not close enough to hit a rock there!

So watch the bar, the reef and the wind. If it's calm, it can be the best! Just use your head! Life jackets are a must!

BUCK HUNTING has been generally slow. Lots of people saving their tags to go north. I took Marty Medin, one of the firehouse boys, out. Marty went ploughing through the poison oak and within 10 minutes had his buck. Two years hunting, two shots, two bucks!

Andy Bottini of San Rafael reported in with a real good looking 98-pound dressed animal.

BASEBALL PRESSURE

Tempers Flarin' And Fists Flyin'

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Tempers were flarin' and fists were flyin' in the National League Monday night as the pressures and frustrations of the pennant race began to surface.

There were two major skirmishes on the field —one in Houston in a game between the Astros and the Los Angeles Dodgers and another in Pittsburgh in a contest between the Philadelphia Phillies and the Pittsburgh Pirates — which resulted in the ejection of three players and the possible suspension of another.

Fans at the Astrodome were treated to a real old-fashioned donnybrook between the Astros and the Dodgers. The incident, which occurred in the first inning, was touched off by a fist-fight between Willie Crawford of the Dodgers and catcher Jack Hiatt of the Astros, and ended up with both benches emptying onto the field.

Crawford and Hiatt exchanged words at home plate after Crawford had warned Ken Forsch about throwing too close to his head, and the two men then began swinging at each other.

Umpire Paul Pryor stepped between the two men to try and stop them, but by the time he intervened both benches had emptied and other players were involved in the fracas. Among them were strongboys Richie Allen of the Dodgers and Doug Rader of the Astros, who flailed at random during the melee.

When the fighting subsided both Crawford and Hiatt were ejected from the game and both had sustained minor injuries. Allen, meanwhile, stayed in the game and collected three hits and two runs batted in while Crawford's replacement, Jim Lefebvre, knocked in what proved to be the winning run with a single in a 3-2 Los Angeles victory.

"It's all right to rumble if nobody gets hurt, especially me," said Allen. "I like to see it every now and then. I think it was something we needed. We were falling back into a hole. We were worrying about the way we were playing. Something like this makes you forget about the way you're playing and you relax after it's over."

The incident at Philadelphia occurred in the sixth inning and was triggered by a disputed fourth ball call to Willie Stargell by plate umpire Mel Steiner. The walk to Stargell, which loaded the bases and paved the way for a 6-4 Pittsburgh triumph, so incensed Phils' catcher Tim McCarver that he was thrown out of the game for arguing too vehemently.

When Roberto Clemente and Manny Sanguillen followed with singles to spark a three-run inning, relief pitcher Billy Wilson was removed from the game and as he was leaving the field he suddenly charged Steiner. It took several players and a coach to restrain the angered hurler from beating on Steiner. Wilson faces possible suspension for his actions.

In the other NL games Monday, St. Louis edged New York, 3-2, Montreal beat Chicago, 6-2, and Cincinnati nipped San Diego, 2-1, in the first game of a doubleheader then lost the nightcap, 4-3.

There were no games scheduled in the American League.

Lou Brock scampered home from third base with the tie-breaking run with two out in the seventh inning on a wild pitch by Jerry Koosman as the Cardinals edged the Mets and remained five games behind the East Division-leading Pirates.

Steve Carlton went the distance for the Cardinals, scattering nine hits, to notch a personal high of 18 victories. Brock stole two bases in the game to climb over the 50 mark for the seventh consecutive year and break the National League record of six previously held by Max Carey.

Steve Renko allowed seven hits in 7 1-3 innings and aided his own cause with a two-run homer in helping Montreal to its 10th victory in 13 games. Bob Bailey also homered for the Expos while Glenn Beckert hit a homer for Chicago.

Lee May hit his 37th homer leading off the eighth inning to give Cincinnati a victory in the first game, but Clarence Gaston belted a two-run homer and a run-scoring double in the nightcap to salvage a split for San Diego.

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI)—Dan Gable, former Iowa State wrestling champion, gave the United States its only victory Monday night when he won the 150-pound division at the 13th Free Style World wrestling championships.

The Soviet Union won the team competition with 42 points. The U.S. was sixth with 19 points.

USC's Jess Hill Named Commissioner Of PCAA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jess Hill, University of Southern California's gentlemanly and highly successful athletic director, will retire six months early.

The Pacific Coast Athletic Association Monday named the 64-year-old former Trojan football and track coach to become the first full-time commissioner.

The appointment is effective Jan. 3 and Hill will step down at USC Dec. 31 instead of next June 30.

John McKay, Southern Cal's football coach who has been serving as co-athletic director with Hill, will move into the position.

Golf

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (UPI) — John Lotz calmly played out of trouble on the final hole Monday to win his first major tournament and take down $12,000 in the $60,000 Liggett and Myers Concord open with a one over par 289.

Tennis

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — Clark Graebner, five times a finalist but never a winner, captured his first eastern open tennis championship Monday by defeating Pierre Barthes of France 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

SPORT SHORTS

Young Christ Evert, the heroine of the United States' victory over Great Britain in the Wightman cup matches earlier this month, won the women's singles final by defeating Helen Gourlay of Australia, 6-4, 6-0.

Bowling

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Barry Asher, Costa Mesa, Calif., rolled to victory Monday night as the highest scoring event in the history of bowling came to a close at the Chippewa Lanes here.

The victory in the $40,000 open was worth $4,000 to Asher.

The three-day event saw a total of 11 perfect games, including one by Asher, which broke by five the previous record.

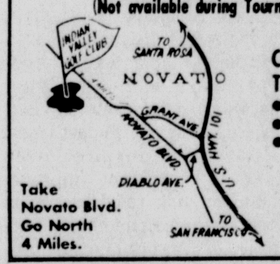

Horse Racing

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UPI) — Speedy Crown has the heredity as the son of 1963 Hambletonian winner Speedy Scot and he'll be stepping on familiar grounds Wednesday giving him at least two advantages in the 46th edition of the trotting classic.

The powerful bay colt, owned by Crown Stable of Plainview, N.Y., and trained and driven by Howard Beissinger, has been on the Du Quoin state fairgrounds longer than any of the other 3-year-old trotters who will be seeking a share of the $129,770 purse.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Record Keeping Is Vital For Investor

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I cannot find the purchase slips on the few stocks that I own. In the event that I want to sell them how am I to establish my cost figures and work out my profits or losses? — C.G.

A. Your predicament illustrates one of my often repeated contentions: Investors should keep a written record of stock transactions in addition to saving their brokerage slips. These slips are very easy to misplace; a written account of all purchases and sales kept in a safe place is added insurance against such a loss.

If your stocks were bought on separate occasions your canceled checks will provide the cost basis for your tax return. However, if these checks are no longer available or if your securities were all bought at one time then perhaps your broker will be able to supply the required information. You may also do some research in your library's back newspaper files, assuming you know the dates these transactions were made.

Your certificate will provide the stock transfer date. The prices you determine in this search will of course be only approximate and will have to be adjusted for any subsequent stock splits or dividends.

Q. Can you inform me of the status of Allied Products Corp.? I bought at 37 and it is now below 20. — C.J.

A. Prospects for Allied Products are beginning to brighten. Company has discontinued several unprofitable textile products and sold its steel operations. As a result first half earnings gained 16 per cent year-to-year despite lower sales. A significant improvement for full year profits is expected by management. Purchase of Aurora Corp., producer of thermostats and valves, was completed in Mary.

PLYMOUTH, DODGE OFFERINGS FOR '72

Two and four-door hardtops, four-door sedans and two and three-seat wagons are among the models Dodge will offer this fall in its top-of-the-line Monaco (above). Three engines — 360 cubic inch and 400-cubic inch, both with two-barrel carburetors, and a 440-cubic inch with four barrels — all have low lead, low octane capability. The cars will be available in Marin at Nave Dodge, Novato, and Marin Dodge, San Rafael. A new grill with a horizontal design emphasizes the low profile of Plymouth's 1972 Barracuda (below). Basic shape and dimensions remain unchanged from last year's models. An electrically operated sun roof joins the option list. Cars will be shown next month at Corte Madera Chrysler Plymouth.

Prices Take Dip In Opening Trade

Prices also backed off in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were L. S. Good unchanged on 30,000 shares, Imperial Oil steady on 14,000 shares, and National Semiconductor Corp. down slightly on 11,000 shares.

On the Big Board, stocks on the most active list included Amerada Hess up 1 7-8, Mobil Oil down 1-2, Chrysler 5-8 lower, American Telephone up 1-8, and Texaco off 5-8.

Steels and motors lost fractions, as did most airlines and aricrafts. Oils and rails were mixed.

New Jet Service

LOS ANGELES (BW) — National Airlines will introduce the wide-bodied McDonnell Douglas DC-10 trijet Dec. 15 with four daily nonstop roundtrips between New York and Florida cities.

Big Party Ends Prohibition

MADRAS, India (UPI)—Citizens of Tamil Nadu state in southern India celebrated an end to 23 years of prohibition today, drinking every drop of fermented coconut milk and fermented fruit and nuts the newly-opened "toddy" shops had to offer.

Madras police reported about 150 arrests for drunkeness and disorderly conduct.

The decision to allow drinking went ahead despite a plea by C. Rajagoapalachari, 94, the last governor general of India under British rule, to retain prohibition in memory of the principles of Mahatma Gandhi, the father of Indian independence.

HC Electronics Plans Move To Larger Site In Mill Valley

Expansion is in the plans of the fast growing firm, H C Electronics of Tiburon, which will be moving to a new and larger plant in Mill Valley in about another 60 days.

The company, founded by Mr. and Mrs. Holden Scott of Tiburon in 1965, manufactures speech therapy and auditory training equipment for children with impaired hearing. Its products are marketed throughout the United States and in some foreign countries.

Fleishman Construction Co. of Mill Valley has commenced work on a 12,300-square foot building at 250 Camino Alto, near the former Purity building and H C Electronics has leased it in its entirety.

The company intends to occupy approximately 6,700 square feet at the start, which is considerably more spacious than its present plant at 1600 Juanita Lane in Tiburon. Plans are to use the remainder of the building later when additional space for further expansion is required. Meanwhile the excess would be leased out until it is needed. Completion of the building is expected about Nov. 1.

CLARENCE G. LUETH of San Rafael is retiring after this month, with 46 years spent with Standard Oil Co. of California, Western Operations, Inc. He has been a salesman for the company in Marin County. Active in company and civic activities, he was president of the San Francisco local of the Petroleum Workers Union for 16 years from 1946 to 1962. He and his wife expect to spend time traveling.

Zuckerman

FORMER MARIN COUNTY resident Henry M. Zuckerman has been promoted to assistant manager at Crocker Bank's Centerville office in Fremont. He joined the bank in 1923 and was at the Kentfield office from 1966 to 1968, after which he was transferred to San Francisco. While in Marin he was a member of the board of governors of the Marin County chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

A. MICHAEL McCARTHY, vice president and controller of the Redwood Bank in San Rafael, represented the private sector on a panel of four accountants sponsored by the San Francisco Chapter of the National Association of Accountants, to acquaint 75 Junior Achievement members from San Francisco with the accounting profession and the need for accountants. The Junior Achievement group has been operating a profitable wood products business this summer.

AN OLD N. CURRIER LITHOGRAPH of San Francisco in 1949, purchased by Harold Rhoades of the Californiana Galleries$sz8$ in Bolinas three years ago for $4,000, recently sold for a record price of $7,500, according to E. C. Evans of Burger and Evans in San Francisco, who just bought it.

The Currier print is said to be one of perhaps a half-dozen in existence and Evans cites this as an example of the handsome prices often being paid for old western views (even if they were copies) made in limited quantities.

So check out the contents of those old trunks in your attic. You may run across something that at least will take care of next year's taxes.

Bank Promises New Loans

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Bank of America has announced it has loaned out the $100 million it had pledged for home loans to low-income families.

In announcing the status of the bank's new opportunity home loan program, President A.W. Clausen said, "More than 6,100 families have received loans totaling more than $101 million since we began the program in 1968."

At the same time, Clausen announced that the bank will commit another $100 million to the low-income housing program. He declined to fix a target date for loaning the additional funds.
